

Another Delay on BART Parking Decision

An agreement between Daly City and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District concerning parking fees at the BART station on John Daly Boulevard still is up in the air today.

After a series of talks on the matter between the two agencies, councilman William Schumacher Monday declined to sign a tentative agreement reached on Feb. 19.

Attending the meeting were Schumacher and Mayor Pro-tem Victor Kyriakis for the city, and Elmer B. Cooper, John H. Kirkwood and Ella Hill Hutch for BART.

BART wants to impose a "reasonable" parking fee at the multi-million-dollar garage planned for the west side of the station.

The amount of the fee would be contingent on costs of maintenance, police services and lighting.

What Daly City councilmen called an "inflated figure" of more than $300,000 a year was submitted by the BART staff to justify imposition of a 50 cent per space fee.

The council rejected the figures and asked for a more detailed cost outline.

After the meeting, it had been assumed that both sides would sign the agreement without delay to allow construction of the 800-space garage to proceed.

Schumacher's balking at the last minute ruffled some of his fellow councilmen.

Councilman Anthony Giammona asked Schumacher why he disagreed.

Schumacher replied that he had spoken to City Atty. Albert Polonsky on the status of Daly City regarding its rights, if any, to veto parking fees and, if Daly City could impose a surcharge parking fee.

He said BART would get all the money from parking fees and Daly City still has primary jurisdiction in criminal cases at the station.

"It seems to me if we have to investigate any crime at the station, we should get some of the (parking money)," Schumacher later told The Post.

But Schumacher said he and Kyriakis, representing the city in the negotiations, "did the very best we could."

explained that as long as BART builds the parking structure, Daly City would have input into negotiations on parking fees.

However, if the structure is not built, BART can charge at its present lots around the station without the city's approval.

An agreement reached in 1972 between BART and Daly City stipulates the transit district will negotiate with the city on any such fees at the new structure.

The final determination on parking fees is made by CALTRANS (California Transportation Department), Mayor McRobert Stewart said.

BART promised not to charge any fee at its parking lots in Daly City until completion of the new structure, or unless such fees were imposed throughout the 75-mile system.

It also was agreed that Daly City was to be considered an "Interested Party," thereby giving it legal recognition in the matter.

Fees shall not exceed an amount which will cause a vacancy factor greater than five per cent within the parking structure at mid-morning on a normal commute day, it was also agreed.

If the fees are forcing motorists to park on side streets, rather than use the parking lot, both agencies will review the fee.

The Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce, in a letter signed by President Al Vial, urged the council to reach agreement on the issue.

Schumacher asked the matter be shelved two weeks to allow the council time to fully investigate any options open to it.

Police Search for Missing Man

Daly City police aided by a San Mateo County Sheriff's helicopter Tuesday combed the beaches near Mussel Rock in search of a missing San Francisco man.

Larry Elmer Burttis' camper truck was found by police about 4 a.m. Tuesday parked at the end of Skyline Drive — some 12 hours after his wife reported him missing.

There were no signs of foul play at the scene, police said.

It was known that Burttis, of 830 Madrid St. liked to surf fish in the area.

There was fear a giant wave might have washed him out to sea off one of the many rock outcroppings in the area Monday night.

Visibility in the area prevented a helicopter search immediately after the truck was found. Police searched the beach front on foot.

Police Explorer Scouts were expected to aid in the search later.

'OR' Program in Jeopardy

A correctional program in San Mateo County patterned after the acclaimed "Des Moines Replication Project" is fighting for its operational and financial life, it was revealed Wednesday.

It is competing with other correctional related projects throughout the state for a share of $4.9 million in state funds for funding after its initial federal grant expires Sept. 1.

The Criminal Justice Council of San Mateo County Wednesday unanimously endorsed the project and its bid for up to $500,000 in state funds.

The project, initiated last August, includes release on own recognizance (OR) officers for the Daly City Jail, as well as for personnel to man the jail so that persons arrested in Daly City, Pacifica, San Bruno and South San Francisco may be booked there rather than transported to Redwood City and booked in the main San Mateo County Jail at the Hall of Justice.

The project also provides for salaries for house counselors at Ellsworth House in San Mateo. Ellsworth House is an alternative to jail program.

Also included in the project, to begin next month, is limited OR services for the San Mateo Jail, according to Project Director P. R. "Dick" Donati.

The council chose the Des Moines Project as its top priority for funding over a project aimed at making deputies at jails and honor camps and related correctional facilities the county therapists so that they can help change defendant behavior and attitudes.

Mrs. Anne Taylor, executive director of the council, said the county's Des Moines project will be among projects throughout the state competing for the money at a Sacramento hearing March 5 and 6. She said grant applications will exceed by three times the amount which will be allocated.

Asst. County Manager Geory Riley said it is essential for the project to receive funding for continuation for several reasons, including pertinent statistics it can supply in two or three years to determine if a county jail is truly needed in the northern county.

He noted that the issue has been debated for several years in political and law enforcement circles.

Donati said the federal government has ruled that no more funds for the project are forthcoming after its initial $250,000 start-up grant.

The OR program is one which allows persons arrested to be released from jail without bail in exchange for their promise to appear in court when so ordered. OR investigators examine an arrestee's background to determine if he is a "good risk" for OR. The program has operated at the Redwood City jail for several years.

Donati said that Florida State University is geared to make an elaborate research evaluation for all seven "Des Moines" projects in the United States, to analyze all aspects of the program.

The Highest Priority

Council Urges Transit Board To Form County-wide System

Bus matters occupied much of Daly City's City Council agenda Monday.

A letter from San Mateo County Supervisor Edward Bacciooco Jr., Jr., chairman of the new county transit district, asked Daly City for input on public transportation needs in the community.

More than 50 citizens petitioned the council to provide an "adequate means of transportation" in the city, inasmuch as the "Northgate Transit system does not provide adequate service."

Northgate is the franchise holder for the city, licensed by the State Public Utilities Corporation.

And two cities — Pacifica and South San Francisco — asked Daly City for approval of bus routes to and from the Bay Area Rapid Transit District station via Mary's Help Hospital and, in the case of South San Francisco, Serramonte Shopping Center.

The final transit matter discussed by the council was a draft resolution urging Bacciooco's transit board to "establish, own and operate a county-wide bus transit system."

"The electorate of San Mateo County voted on Nov. 5, 1974 to establish the San Mateo County Transit District," the resolution stated.

The resolution further noted an adequate county-wide bus transit system is presently the highest priority need in the county.

Both South San Francisco and Pacifica's requests were approved by the council, and the citizen's petition made a part of the record.

At a Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce meeting last week, Bacciooco informed those attending the luncheon he would propose a federated bus system — one run by individual cities — as one transportation alternative along with an outline on how the nine member transit board should proceed with its work.

Bacciooco later said the federated proposal was only one of several alternatives that should be fully explored.

However, Bacciooco's

remarks at the chamber dismayed some Daly City officials.

Mayor McRobert Stewart said Monday if a federated bus system is established "it would be defeating our purpose."

Stewart said what is needed is a county-wide integrated system under a blanket agency.

Councilman Paul Hupf said he had been getting "a lot of pressure from the people to improve our internal bus system," and unless a superior internal system can be established there would be no sense in the county setting up the district.

City manager David Rowe suggested the resolution contain a stipulation that a superior system to what Daly City now has be established.

Fastest Draw(er) in Town

A Brentwood Market checkout cashier has the fastest money drawer in Daly City — at least that's probably what two would-be holdup men are thinking today.

The pair approached Beverly Wallace's checkout stand in the Brentwood Market, 6967 Mission St. about 10:45 p.m. Saturday and asked the price of a package of gum.

When the 25-year-old employee opened the cash drawer, one of the men allegedly grabbed the drawer and told her woman, "This is a stickup, don't move," police said.

Instead, the cashier slammed the drawer shut on the man's hand and called over the store's intercom that she was being robbed.

The two men fled.

For several months the council has been talking about a top notch transportation system that could serve the entire county, councilman Anthony Giammona said.

"That's what the people have voted for," he said.

Meanwhile, Bacciooco informed the council in a letter dated Feb. 7, it was not the intent of the transit board to impose the system on any city.

Rather, he would hope it evolved from study and discussion.

Council Introduces Revised Sign Law

Daly City's City Council Monday introduced its revised sign law — some two years and several dozen meetings after it was first proposed.

Considerably watered down since the original draft, the sign ordinance still is strong enough to bring orderly planning to the city's business community, officials feel.

It was expected that over the next few years the conglomeration of nonconforming signs along Mission, Junipero Serra and Geneva streets will be weeded out and replaced with conforming signs.

The matter of billboards for political advertising purposes was discussed by Councilman William Schumacher who thought it was unfair if a political candidate could not afford to advertise on the signs.

Part of the new law deals with political signs and restricts their size and length of time they can remain up.

The council agreed to amend the sign law to allow two 32 square foot political signs on a lot.

Temporary signs also will be allowed on the basis of one per 1500 residents, it was explained.

Billboards do not come under this regulation, according to City Attorney Al Polonsky.

However, Al Reed of Foster & Kleiser Sign Company, again informed the council his firm was opposed to amortization of billboards without compensation. Councilman Paul Hupf represents the outdoor advertising company and has abstained from involvement in the issue in recent years.

Carl Heymann, director of the California Electric Sign Users Council of California, said the law was "somewhat restrictive" but he said he had few objections.

Heymann did caution the council and staff on allowance of signs protruding only six feet from ground level, calling them hazardous to pedestrians and motorists.

He said perhaps a sign measuring at least eight to 10 feet from ground level would be safer.

The council informed Heymann variances for such signs, usually in landscaped commercial areas, would be reviewed by the City Planner's office.

Explosion Follows 'I Love You'

For two hours Monday Nancy Shepard tried to explain to her ex-boyfriend why she had broken off their relationship two days ago.

The telephone discussion started at about 5:15 p.m. between Nancy and Larry Ralph Whitman, 32, of 14 Visitacion Ave., Brisbane.

Finally, about 7:15 p.m., Whitman said, "Goodbye, I love you."

Nancy heard a loud explosion, and silence.

She called Jack Gillmore, a friend living in neighboring South San Francisco, who called police.

Police found Whitman lying in a pool of blood in a rear bedroom of the home; a .38 caliber handgun was nearby.

He died at 8:35 p.m. at Kaiser Hospital from a gunshot wound of the head.

PIPE BOMB EXPLAINED

A pipe bomb is held aloft by a member of Army's Presidio bomb squad at morning meeting of Mexican bomberos (firemen) at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds. Bomberos, background, came from all over Mexico. Leaders said they asked for the bomb demonstrations and instruction because of an increase in terrorists activity in central Mexico parallel to that in United States.

ROLL CALL

Marge Shottan, president of the South San Francisco unit of the California Teachers Association, draws school employees' names from a coffee can Friday at the district lottery. Recording the results (right) is Emma Martinelli, secretary to David Cricks, assistant superintendent of certified personnel.

Lottery Decides Seniority

A total of 717 South San Francisco teachers and other employees cast lots Friday to determine seniority for employees hired in the same year.

Each teacher in the district emerged from the lottery with a number after his or her name indicating the order in which layoffs would occur should the number of teachers in the district be reduced.

However, there appeared to be little prospect of teachers being immediately fired in South San Francisco, in spite of recent action by the Board of Trustees eliminating $887,452 worth of school programs. These programs would be restored should voters approve a $95 per pupil revenue increase in the March 4 election. If voters reject the measure as they did last November, the number of teachers would be reduced by about 12 to 18, according to various estimates.

However, normal attrition, it is hoped, would accomplish such reductions, according to David Cricks, assistant superintendent for personnel.

However, as about 20 to 30 teachers watched the lottery proceeding in the board room Friday afternoon, jokes, remarks and nervous laughter showed that teachers still felt tense.

The American Federation of Teachers tried to hold a protest meeting nearby at the same time but was unsuccessful in attracting many teachers. The AFT charged that the district was using the lottery as a pretext for getting rid of those teachers whom they do not want. The rival California Teachers Association took part in the lottery, with the local president, Marge Shottan, helping Cricks match up members and names as she drew slips of paper from a coffee can.

Pacifica Requests Funds

The Pacifica City Council Monday night approved an application for $414,968 in federal funds under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

The application is designed as the first of a three-year program. It would cover a city census and the hiring of a housing inspector, rehabilitation specialist, social services specialist, citizen participation coordinator and at least one secretary. Also mentioned in the application are: Tree planting, $20,000; senior citizens facility, $34,800; child care facilities, $50,000; and public walkway construction, $20,000.

It was the second public hearing held on the application, in addition to four citizen participation meetings, at which various elements of the citizenry told their needs.

Among them was a group of young mothers belonging to the Pacifica Parent Advocates for Children, which recently had completed a survey showing there are major gaps in child care resources available to Pacifica families.

Beverly Batz, chairperson of the group, asked that the city council appoint a citizens task force for child care, which would study child care needs and prepare a comprehensive plan to meet existing and future needs. If the city receives the HUD grant, she said, then the child care task force could become a subcommittee of the citizens' task force, which would oversee the HUD study of Pacifica's needs.

Councilman Stan Farber said he had learned that funds under the program can be used to finance such facilities as an auditorium, community center, little theater and social service rehabilitation, although they could not be used for general city offices.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss ... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss ... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already sick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are sick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

Parks, Open Space Review Requested

There should be a complete review of the Parks and Open Space Element of the San Mateo County General Plan, the Parks and Recreation Commission believes.

The commission Wednesday adopted a recommendation of Parks and Recreation Director John T. Brook Jr. for the review and will forward the proposal to the Board of Supervisors.

Brook requested the commission to "urge" the board to authorize the review "in view of changing conditions and needs."

Commissioner Joseph Higgins concurred in moving for approval of the request, noting that there might be a need to "establish new priorities" in the county's park and open space program.

The recommendation came as the commission completed its second annual review of the 10-year parks and open space acquisition and development program.

Brook warned that the program as planned is "never going to be accomplished with the money that will be available" from the 10-cent tax approved by voters in 1972 for a 10-year period.

The director cited inflation and increased costs of acquisition and development. He noted, as an example, that the cost of developing Coyote Point Park has doubled from the original estimate to $5.5 million.

The commission heard complaints concerning the trimming from $6 million to $3 million the estimated acquisition cost of the 1,244 acres for San Bruno Mountain Regional Park.

Brook explained that when the park originally was proposed, an "arbitrary" acquisition cost estimate of $6 million was established.

"We feel the original estimate of value excessive and that it should be reduced," Brook stated.

He said that it is not the cost estimate that is important, but the proposed program which is important.

Brook noted that the commission has approved a park plan of 1,244 acres and that the financing will be available for the acquisition.

"We're saying the 1,244 acres should be acquired," Brook stated. "If it costs $4 million or $5 million, then we will have to review other programs."

"We have to get away from dollar figures," commented Commission Chairwoman Polly Sandkulla.

Mayor Anja Miller of Brisbane protested the lowering of the $6 million figure for acquisition of the San Bruno Mountain Park, stating that the figure has been publicized and that "people will expect the county to spend that amount."

Mrs. Miller also protested that the majority of the county's park area is in the south county, closer to Santa Clara County than to the north county.

She noted that the north county has 40 per cent of the county's population and that the residents want their "fair share" of park and open space funding.

If the $6 million is not needed for the 1,244 acre site, then the acquisition should be expanded, she asserted.

Eleanor Boushey, a member of the Portola Valley Town Council, stated that in view of the shortage and increasing cost of gasoline perhaps the "whole concept of parks should be re-thought."

"I didn't think the original plan was set in concrete," she stated. "Parks should be where people can use them. City residents pay their full share of county taxes. Do they (parks) have to be in unincorporated areas?"

Mrs. Sandkulla defended the county's program. She noted that Pescadero Creek Park, for example, will provide overnight camping for which there is a "desperate need."

Furthermore, she added, the county "can't pick up desirable locations (Sanstone Caves, James Fitzgerald Marine Reserve, Holmes redwood grove, and move them somewhere else if we went to preserve them."

Sen. Moscone Pledges 'Good Representation'

By BOB PETERSON
State Senator George Moscone (D-SF, SM) Friday morning said his constituency in North San Mateo County would continue to be well represented, even if he's elected mayor of San Francisco.

"I think San Mateo County has a big stake in San Francisco electing a certain type of mayor," said Moscone in response to questions by the press during breakfast at the El Rancho Restaurant in Millbrae.

"I can't see where San Mateo County will be hurt by having a San Francisco mayor who once served San Mateo County," he said.

The senator was meeting with the press prior to attending the official opening of his new district office at 383 San Bruno Ave., West, in San Bruno.

Moscone said he didn't believe he misled anyone at the time of his election to the Senate seat last November into thinking he would not seek the San Francisco mayoralty.

"I never made it a secret that there was a strong possibility that I'd run for mayor. It's a famous job for which everyone purports to run," said Moscone. He said his San Mateo County constituency "won't be short-changed for the time I'm here. I owe that responsibility."

According to Moscone, he'll be "tested" this year for his constituency as to whether he's representing them to their satisfaction. "I'm especially concerned with the problems of this new part of my district (he previously served only San Francisco), and I want to learn first hand about them and plans for resolving them."

Moscone said as San Francisco mayor, for example, he'd have nothing to do with "commuter tax talk or taking a parochial position on the (San Francisco International) airport, the (San Francisco) jail (near San Bruno) or anything else."

As the situation now exists between San Mateo County and San Francisco officials, joint problems are rarely solved, because of what Moscone calls San Francisco's "parochial position."

He said that attitude would change if he were San Francisco's mayor. "I am willing to sit down with anyone on San Mateo concerns," said Moscone. "I've tried to tell San Mateo County I want to do what they want me to do."

Asked about the proposed expansion of the airport, which has been contested in a lawsuit asking for a complete environmental impact report prior to construction, Moscone reiterated his position that he'd support expansion only if "a conclusive case" can be made for it. "But evidence is that the expansion is premature at best," he said. "I prefer the comfort of people over the expansion of the airport."

On other issues Moscone had these comments:

- School financial problems: "The major problem now facing the Legislature. I think people should support their schools, but I'm not going to support every bond issue on the basis that because it's for the school it must be good."

He said the state must pick up a greater share of educational costs. One revenue producing method would be to eliminate the existing law allowing insurance companies to have home office property tax exemptions. Another would be to eliminate the oil depletion allowance, said Moscone.

- Emergency phone number 911: "It's a mandated program that ought to be handled by the counties and if they haven't the funds to finance it they ought to bring a lawsuit. The state has the obligation to shoulder the whole thing."

- Rapid Transit: "I'm not wedded to BART. But San Mateo County does need an extraordinary transit system."

- Binding arbitration for police and fire: "I'm not sure we can provide legislation" that would allow a third party to settle negotiations. "I don't think we could get public acceptability of this."

- Governor Brown's administration: "It's a great mystery as to what Jerry Brown will or won't sign. He's made it clear he's unclear where we're going to dispense the (Reagan administration) surplus."

'Firm Commitment' Given On Recreation Complex

The Jefferson Union High School District last week assured Pacifica Mayor Aubrey Lumley of a "firm commitment for developing the best possible recreational-educational facilities at Terra Nova and Oceana High Schools."

That meant eight lighted tennis courts at Terra Nova and a covered pool at Oceana High School, a letter to Lumley stated.

The assurance was made by Board President John Sloane because of fears that have been expressed in Pacifica that inflation could cause the school district to cut back on the tennis courts.

Preliminary architectural estimates are that the eight lighted courts would cost $238,000, which would allow $1,137,000 in combined city-school funds to build a covered swimming pool.

Architects have said the projects still can be built within those costs, Sloane said. However, he emphasized, "any serious discussions concerning this matter are extremely premature, highly speculative and unnecessarily alarming."

Should the costs go over that amount, Sloane suggested the district might pay the extra amount needed to complete the two contracts and then the city would reimburse the district for its 40 per cent share over a period of time.

Sloane also suggested building the pool first, and delaying completion of the courts, since the courts could always be completed later.

However, Tuesday Councilman Stan Farber urged the school district build the courts as soon as possible.

"In the last week," he said, "I've been asked 20 times when the courts would be built. The land already is level. My feeling is that they are waiting to see how much the pool will cost. Let's build the courts and underground the lines — then fight over the electrolines."

Recreation Supervisor Dave Barry said he was assured by Asst. Supt. Floyd Gonella that the district plans to go to bid on the courts in three weeks and complete the courts by June.

Lumley, however, said, it would be ... would be much more expensive to come back later."

Meanwhile, school officials announced the schedule for the swimming pool construction. Thursday, the joint city-school district committee met with the architect to review preliminary plans, alternate schemes and preliminary estimates of the probable costs.

Bids will be opened Sept. 16 and the contractor will begin work Oct. 6. The pool is due for completion next Aug. 6, and official dedication ceremonies are tentatively set for Sept. 18, 1976.

LSSD Moves to Relieve Crowding

Laguna Salada School District Supt. James Brien has proposed moving a relocatable classroom from Sharp Park School to Oddstad School, to relieve a growing enrollment crunch in the newly growing neighborhoods of Pacifica.

The move, he told the School Board Thursday night, would convert Oddstad to a 20-classroom building.

Oddstad School has been unable to house the enrollment in its growing attendance area, the Park Pacifica neighborhood, but the district has not been able to build another school because general enrollment throughout the rest of the district has been falling drastically. As a result, students have been bused to Crespi and other schools with vacant classrooms.

School officials are unable to work out a final plan on where to send children from the growing "back of the valley" area until they find out how many kindergarten children will enroll this September.

Brien urged that the older residents not be replaced at Oddstad by the newer ones moving in. On the other hand, he noted that parents do not object to busing as long as it is consistent, and that the children are not shifted from school to school.

He also raised the possibility of pairing two schools and having all the children of one grade attend the same school, as has been done with Pacific Heights and Portola Highlands schools.

Brien plans to meet with parents to obtain their reactions to the proposed housing plans.

Meanwhile, the School Facilities Use Committee presented its report of its study of the enrollment decline during the past four years. It concluded that no school should be closed. Instead, the number of children per classroom should be cut and currently vacant classrooms be used for "traveling teachers," such as speech teachers and those who teach the educationally handicapped.

Five Vie for Two LSSD Board Seats

Five candidates are vying for two seats on the Laguna Salada School District Board. The district includes Pacifica and West San Bruno.

Only one candidate is an incumbent, Grady Hesters, 32. He was appointed to the school board October 1974.

Challenging him are a banker, Robert M. Derenzi, 33; Richard Scott, 35, chief of oral surgery at Mt. Zion Hospital; Cheryl Sharp, 22, a savings counselor; and an educational consultant, Rudie W. Tretten, 43.

Hesters says that in spite of his appearance, he is conservative. His long hair is tied in a pony tail and he wears casual clothing.

With his father in the Air Force, Hesters attended 12 schools before graduating from high school. From that experience, he says: "I learned that school facilities and equipment are not what makes the difference in education. What makes the difference are the teachers. I've been to poor schools which were good, and to rich schools which were bad."

He won an appointment to the Air Force Academy, but resigned to go into education, receiving his B.A. degree at San Francisco State University. He took part in American Airlines' management training program, having served them as a budget analyst, personnel supervisor and chief of management information. He has worked as producer-director of educational films, and as vice president for a film and television producing firm. He worked at Studio 70, Channel 8 in Pacifica for three years.

He married and came to Pacifica 11 years ago. He and his wife have three children, 4, 6, and 8.

He is past president of the Pacifica Unitarian Fellowship and the Vallemar Alternate Class Parent Group. He is a member of the Pacifica Co-op Nursery School, and co-ordinator of the Youth in Action Auction.

Hesters believes that the first responsibility of a Laguna Salada trustee is to work to get the "additional state money we are entitled to" because of the Serrano-Priest decision.

He pledges to work for smaller class size, more help for the educationally handicapped and for gifted students, and a major improvement in the intermediate program which he believes is inadequate. He calls for new ideas on control of problem behavior.

"A child becomes disruptive in the classroom for good reasons that have nothing to do with school, but are caused by home problems, diet, or personal problems. We have to serve those children without them disrupting education for everyone else."

With declining enrollment, Hesters wants the district to plan for smaller school enrollment and thus smaller class sizes instead of closing schools.

Robert M. Derenzi believes that out of five trustees, one should be a man knowledgeable of finance, since school finance is often such a complex but vital subject. He is manager of the San Francisco Produce Office of the Bank of America.

Born and reared in San Francisco, Derenzi graduated from Balboa High School, and received his B.S. degree in accounting and finance from San Jose State University. He and his wife Kinga have resided in Pacifica for a year and a half, with their two daughters, Christi, 5, and Michele, 17 months. During that time, he has become involved with the Pacifica Boys' Club and the Miss Pacifica Pageant.

Before moving to Pacifica, he had heard that Pacifica had a "lousy school district." However, upon enrolling Christi, he had a long talk with the Crespi School principal, and gradually has found himself getting more involved with the district, which he now considers to be "a pretty good one."

As enrollment declines he wants to look into the all-year school plan as one possibility for better utilizing district funds. He believes arbitration is the best way to settle labor disputes.

Though born in Mississippi, Richard Scott has spent most of his life in California. He attended the University of Pacific in Stockton and Howard and Georgetown Universities in Washington, D.C. He graduated with a master's degree in dental surgery as well as other dental degrees. He was presented the America Legion Award for Academic Excellence, and was included in 1974 Synanon, Who's Who in American Universities.

He is president of the National Dental Association's Northern California chapter and is president of the board of directors of the American Society of Dental Anesthesiology. He is on the staff of the University of California's School of Dentistry, where he heads the Committee of Admission Procedures. He also is a consultant at Synanon, Delancy Street, West Oakland Health Center and the East Palo Alto Health Center.

With three children, a 9-year-old boy and two girls, 11 and 2, he believes he should become more involved in elementary education. He is a member of the Fairmont School PTA.

His basic platform, he says, is to increase the degree of participation of all elements in the schools, and to achieve an "optimum level of education for the children of our community."

He added that "we can only have an efficient system if consumers can criticize and correct deficiencies when they appear."

Scott calls for reduction in the pupil-teacher ratio, and wants every child to be given an opportunity to determine his or her career, by introducing him or her to the world of work, early in life. Experts in various fields of employment would be invited into the schools, he said.

Cheryl Sharp has lived in Pacifica the longest of any candidate — 20 years. She attended Laguna Salada schools, graduated from Terra Nova High School in 1971, and attended the University of San Francisco for a year and a half. She currently works at Bayview Federal Savings and Loan.

She is a charter member of the Portola Women's Business and Professional Association, and also belongs to the American Savings and Loan Institute. She has worked for the Pacifica Recreation Division, and as an ecology camp counselor for the school district.

Interest in public affairs runs in her family. Her father, Wally Sharp, has served on the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission.

Miss Sharp favors more individual help for students, and more emphasis on reading and community involvement.

Rudie Tretten grew up in San Francisco. He holds degrees from the University of California, San Francisco State University and Stanford. He is supervisor of student teachers at SFSU, and serves as consultant on special projects.

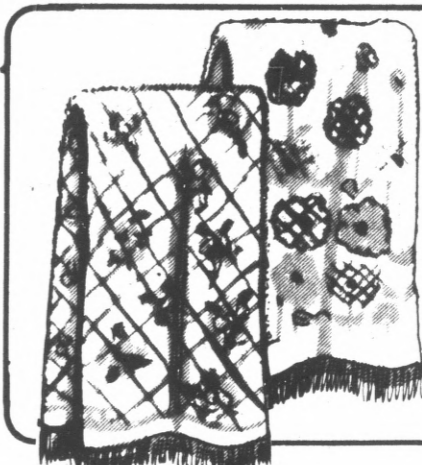

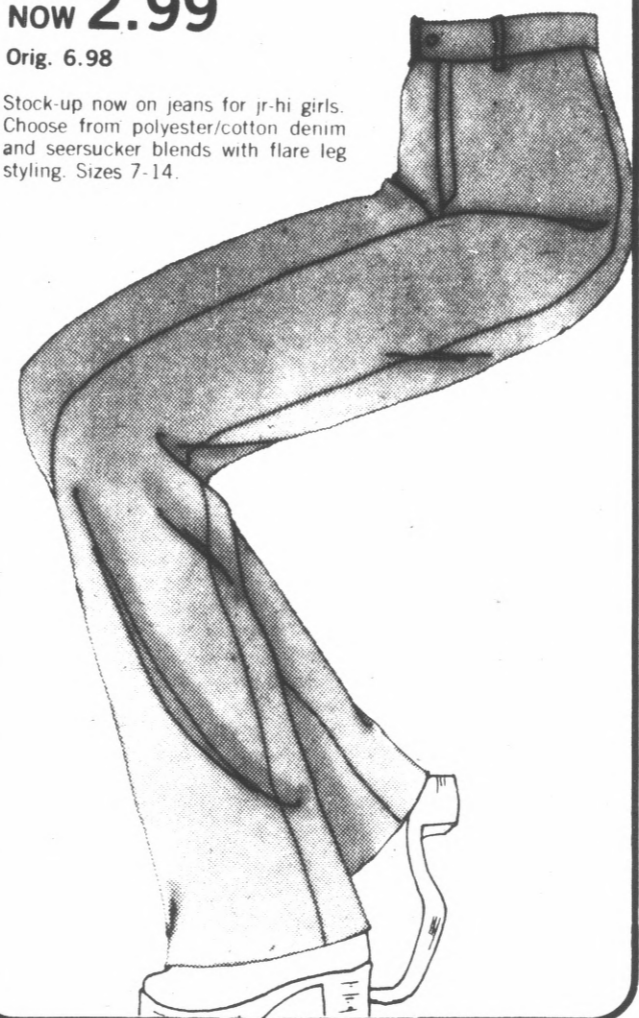

He and his wife, Shirley, have resided in Pacifica for 8½ years. Their daughter Karen, 18, has graduated from Oceana High, and their son, Eric, 15, is on the sophomore basketball team there. Tretten is chairman of the San Mateo County Mental Health Advisory Board, first vice president of the San Mateo County Comprehensive Health Planning Council, vice president of the Pacifica Democrats, past chairman of the North County Citizens Committee for Mental Health Services.

Three Candidates Seek Two JESD Seats

Three candidates are vying for two posts in the Jefferson Elementary School District's March 4 election.

Incumbents Beverly Forrester and Alvin Schwarzbach will be attempting to hold onto their posts for another term, while challenger Michael E. Furtch, a community service representative, will try to unseat one of them.

Mrs. Forrester, 36, has been a school trustee for four years, and is the mother of two young children.

"I have gained during the past four years, the experience and insight needed to effectively deal with the problems and challenges confronting education today," Mrs. Forrester said. "My dedication, concern and untiring interest in the future of every child has contributed to improved and expanded programs (in the JESD)," she said.

Believing schools should be removed from the vacuum in which they had been operating, Mrs. Forrester said she actively sought funding for programs, which enlisted parent and community participation.

"During my tenure of office, the district obtained state and federal funding for additional reading and math programs and counseling services — some $774,000 — bilingual programs, Early Childhood Education, American Indian students, expanded lunch program, expansion of Compensatory Education Program and preventative mental health program," she said.

"I will continue to be responsible to the needs of the community, demonstrating an open, straight forward approach to problems which taxpayers, parents and district employees can understand and trust," she said.

Beverly Forrester

Alvin L. Schwarzbach, 49, is a real property specialist for Crocker Bank, is the father of three children, two of them students in the JESD.

A 13-year resident of Daly City, Schwarzbach has been a trustee since winning a special election in 1974 to fill the unexpired term of Ed Tomasello.

Schwarzbach said: "As a board member, I have developed a philosophy of conduct which calls for democratic problem solving by honest open discussion; establishment of educational goals and objectives which fit the needs of our children and community; a sincere effort to get the most for each tax dollar; identification of the real issues and their solutions;

"A willingness to meet problems head-on; a commitment to work together with all board members; establishment of priorities for all expenses; a continuous evaluation of programs and services plus an individual accountability for conduct and performance," he said.

This set of principles, "and the assets of my education, business background and community involvement will enable me to continue to make a strong, practical and positive contribution towards educational quality and excellence in our school district."

Michael E. Furtch has called for a reevaluation of priorities in the district and a stronger move toward "student oriented" programs.

"A student going into high school from the Jefferson Elementary School District should be prepared scholastically, emotionally and physically," he said. "We are just not doing the proper job of getting our children ready.

The teachers in high school are teaching the things that should have been learned in junior high."

Furtch, who has spent more than seven years working in various community positions for the people of Daly City, said he will propose a pilot program to help the student make that difficult transition.

"I can see students receiving intensified training or specialized counseling in the area she or he is weak in," Furtch said. "I can see the community getting involved and assisting in the program. The cost will be minimal and the benefits maximum."

Michael Furtch

He emphasized that cooperation of the parents would be "a must" in order for the program to be a success. "But I'm sure that the parents' interests are as sincere as mine — with the child's best interest," Furtch said.

Furtch also expressed concern over the hiring practices of the district.

"So often, the last hired is the first fired," he said. "As a result we stand to lose some very good teachers. I'm more interested in the quality of the teacher than in numbers. When it comes to a point where the teacher is just punching a time clock and collecting a paycheck it's time for us to take a close look at that teacher."

A graduate of Jefferson High School and San Mateo and Skyline College, Furtch has been involved with community affairs. He has served as Community Organizer Representative for the Daly City Information and Referral Center and as Community Representative in the county.

Because of his experience working with the people and the various city agencies and groups he feels as a board member he can be effective in encouraging community involvement in the schools.

St. Andrew's Center Adult Education Program Slated

The second semester of St. Andrew's Community Education Program is scheduled to begin. The theme for the program is "God's People."

This adult education program is open to all adults of the Bay Area and especially in the immediate vicinity of Daly City. St. Andrew's Center is located at 45 St. Francis Square, Southgate and Sullivan Avenues, Daly City.

The various courses and workshops being offered this semester are:

Sacrament of Forgiveness: a contemporary look at penance, instructed by Father Kenan Osborne.

Father Osborne is president and dean of the Franciscan School of Theology; chairman of the Commission of the Catholic Theological Society of America on Renewal of the Sacraments of Penance; and editor of a book on the Sacrament of Penance to be published in June. His course will be given on Wednesday evenings from April 2 through May 7.

Father Gerald Coleman, a teacher of Christian morality at St. Patrick's Seminary, Menlo Park, will give a course, Moral Development and Conscience Formation on Monday evenings from April 14 through May 19. This lecture series will study the Christian concept of morality as related to church, and the concept of the church as a family of forgiveness and freedom.

Forgiveness and Peace Through Christian Values is a values clarification exercise to provide methods for encouraging children to understand and commit themselves to options commensurate with Christian values. Instructors for this course are Mrs. Mary Monteverdi, an instructor at the College of Notre Dame, Belmont and at Mercy High School, San Francisco, and Sister Irmayn, Religious Education director for St. Andrew's. The three monthly sessions, of primary interest to parents and teachers, will be held at various times during March, April and May.

— The Prophets: Tea Leaves or a Matter of Conscience, a lecture and discussion series given by Father John Dillon Riley of St. Andrews, will be held on Monday evenings and Tuesday mornings, March 3 through March 25.

— Creative Christian Crafts by Nell Norton will be held on Wednesday mornings during the month of March. This is the second semester this course has been offered.

The last two courses are Women's Awareness Workshops given by Sister Joan Murphy and Men's Awareness Group given by Jack Gilligan. The women's workshop is limited to 10 women and the men's workshop is limited to eight men. Dates and times will be arranged to fit the schedule of those participating.

For additional information and registration call: 992-4577 or 756-3330.

KOREA COMMAND OSAN, Republic of Korea — U.S. Air Force Major R. W. Danielson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Danielson of 714 Hurlingham Ave., San Mateo, has assumed command of the 51st Organizational Maintenance Squadron at Osan AB, Republic of Korea.

The major, a 1964 graduate of San Mateo High School, received his B.S. degree from Montana State College and was commissioned there in 1968 through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He is a member of Sigma Nu.

A Lively Election Expected in SSFUSD

A lively March 4 school board election is expected in South San Francisco with six candidates seeking two trustee posts. Only one is an incumbent.

Voter interest, however, seems to be centered on the tax election, in which the South San Francisco Unified School District is asking for a $95 increase in the amount that may be spent for each student.

Campaigning in the tax election are supporters of after-school athletics, special education programs and busing.

An identical measure lost, 7,080 to 5,019, last November.

A large turnout is expected.

The incumbent in the trustee race is Board Chairman John "Matt" Dillon, 28, Arlington Drive.

Trustee J. G. Christensen is not seeking re-election.

Bitter over protracted labor negotiations last year, the California Teachers Association's political arm is supporting Patsy Hilliard, mother of four who has been active in community activities. Also backing her is COPE, the political arm of the AFL-CIO.

Conducting vigorous door-to-door campaigns are William M. Moffatt, 810 Antoinette Lane, and David Orozco, 3715 Fleetwood Drive in San Bruno.

Moffatt was second among five candidates for one seat last November, with 3,510 votes.

Marie J. Hickman, 380 King Drive, also ran in November, finishing last with 593 votes. She decided to run again when the tax increase measure was placed on the ballot, since she opposes use of property taxes for schools.

Both Mrs. Hickman and a sixth candidate, Thelda Estes, 3848 Radburn Drive, appear to be running low-key campaigns.

Dillon first was elected three years ago from a field of nine candidates. He and his wife have five children, 19 to 30 years of age. He retired from the U.S. Army Artillery as a major, with 21 service ribbons and decorations for combat in seven campaigns, after 30 years' service. Dillon is an executive of the Transportation Guarantee Co. of South San Francisco.

Born in Hong Kong where his father served as a British Army officer, Dillon came to the United States in 1927. He has served as an officer in the Winston Manor Homeowners Association, and has been involved in church work.

He said recently he first ran because children were reading below the national average, and vocational education was limited. He said he has scored successes in both objectives.

"I have a few other items on the back burner I also would like to finish off," he said.

He said he has tried to conduct meetings in an open manner, allowing all persons to speak their minds.

Mrs. Hilliard and her family came to South San Francisco four years ago, after six years in Liberia. Her husband first was in the Peace Corps there, then set up a model school program under auspices of San Francisco State University.

He is dean of the SFSU School of Education.

A native of Denver, Mrs. Hilliard attended the Colorado State College of Education and the University of Colorado, and is taking courses in Anthropology at SFSU.

The Hilliards have four children, ages 11 to 15, in three schools, with Mrs. Hilliard active in each of the PTAs. She is chairman of the Parent Education Committee at Westborough Junior High, secretary of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Multicultural Teacher Education, and serves on the Citizens Advisory Committees on Consumer Education and Career Education at Westborough Junior High.

She is a past president of the Women's Faculty Club at SFSU, is directing training for docents on the African and Oceania sections of the deYoung Museum in San Francisco and is a volunteer at the math center.

"Three C's for Education" is her slogan — community, communications and curriculum.

The school board, she said, "should use every possible way to let the community know what is going on in the schools."

"She said schools should provide a sound basic, academic curriculum, as well as vocational training to provide the students with salable skills."

Mrs. Hilliard expressed concern over some of the cuts planned by trustees if Proposition C fails.

"In the future," she said, "if we continue to examine the budget instead of waiting for a crisis, we can avoid this."

Moffatt, 38, was a school board member in Ukiah. He was born in New York, served in the Army for three years, was educated at Cornell and University of San Francisco and came to South San Francisco some four years ago.

He is a member of Southwood and Ponderosa PTAs. He and his wife have three sons. He is with the National Federation of Independent Businesses.

Moffatt is stressing: "No child should leave third grade without a grasp of the fundamentals."

—Only the finest teachers available should be retained. If any are sub-par, they should be removed.

—The school system must train every student to hold a "real" job.

—Language instruction should begin in kindergarten.

—Vandalism and narcotic drug traffic in schools must be halted.

Proposition C should pass, he insisted, so present levels of service can be maintained, Moffatt said.

Orozco, 43, said his background as a revenue agent and estate tax attorney would provide needed fiscal skills to the board.

Orozco and his wife, who have two children, are active in two PTAs. He is on the Secondary Education Advisory Committee. He has a bachelor of science degree in accounting and a law degree.

He is active in Y-Indian Guides and is a block parent. Born in Detroit, he was raised in Southern California, and attended Denver University and Golden Gate College. He is a Navy veteran of the Korean War.

Orozco would:

—Establish a system for initiating, monitoring and evaluating pilot programs. There is no way now of finding if programs are worthwhile, he said.

—Increase funding for special education and increase the number of aides.

—Increase input in the district from both parent and teachers. Encourage parents to become volunteers, if the teachers want them.

—Increase the multicultural program, obtaining views from major ethnic groups.

Orozco said he supports the tax over-ride, because he believes cutting school programs would be detrimental to children.

Thelda Estes has had 20 years' school experience as a secretary.

She helped "start" Capuchino High School in San Bruno and later El Camino High in South San Francisco.

She and her husband retired in 1969, moved to Chico where they sold real estate and bought apartment houses, renting to college students and families.

El Camino's 1965 yearbook was dedicated to her. She is a life member of the El Camino Booster Club.

She returned to South San Francisco in 1973. She is secretary at Terra Nova High School in Pacifica. She has one son, a store manager in Youngstown, Ohio.

She stressed better discipline in school and is an adamant supporter of Proposition C.

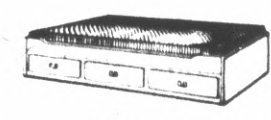

"It made me sick (to see) those programs that I watched come to South San Francisco over the years being cut out," she said.

While in Chico, she worked on a federal grant project testing children in their classrooms.

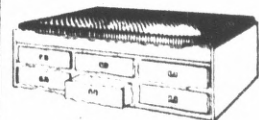

Marle Hickman has resided in South San Francisco 15 years. Her daughter graduated from South San Francisco High. She has been a Girl Scout leader and has owned a baby-sitting agency.

"Taking care of children has been my main project in life," she said recently.

Pacifica Double Homicide

Defendant Was a Drug Agent

Louis Reynolds Jr., defendant in a double Pacifica homicide case, was operating as an agent for federal narcotic officers and was about to conclude a purchase of 60 ounces of heroin from one of the persons slain, the prosecution said Feb. 18 in the opening of Reynolds' trial in Redwood City.

Reynolds, 34, of Oakland, is charged with the slayings of Junias Joe Miller, 41, and Barbara Ann Lacy, 25. Their bodies were found in Miller's apartment on Gateway Drive in Pacifica May 30. Reynolds was arrested Nov. 15.

Prosecutor John E. O'Leary, in an opening statement before Superior Court Judge William Lanam and a jury of nine women and three men, alleged that Reynolds owed Miller $6,000 for drugs.

Conversely, defense attorney Joseph Gruber attacked the state's material witness, 22-year-old Jean Ross, and said the defense would introduce evidence showing that Reynolds left the Miller apartment before the homicides.

Both Gruber and O'Leary categorized Miller as a major Bay Area drug supplier. O'Leary said that unbeknownst to Pacifica police, Miller was under investigation by federal narcotic agents at the time of his death. Sixty ounces of heroin would cost $60,000 to $72,000 on the streets.

While O'Leary said that evidence would implicate Reynolds and show that a second man remains unapprehended, Gruber's statement attempted to raise speculation and create a "whodunit" atmosphere.

O'Leary argued that Reynolds intended to slay Miller, and that Miss Lacy was killed because she was a witness.

Gruber, meanwhile, said that Reynolds left the apartment before the time that Miss Ross said she saw him.

Miss Ross lived in the same apartment complex as Miller, and, only two weeks before his death, had arranged to deliver some heroin for him. However, she changed her mind, O'Leary said.

The prosecutor noted that Miss Ross did not provide police with that information until nearly four months after the homicides.

"We are the first to admit Miss Ross gave only fragments of information at first, and at times she gave misleading information," O'Leary said of his self-proclaimed prime witness. "She was reluctant to become involved and she feared for her life."

Gruber, meanwhile, said that Miss Ross' roommate was having an argument with a friend about that time, and did not hear anything.

But the roommate believes she heard two screams at about 10:45 p.m., and that she heard knocks, apparently on Miller's door, at midnight, Gruber said, adding that the statement has been unchanged since May 30.

"The defendant has never denied being there that night," Gruber said. "He left shortly before 10 p.m."

The prosecution said that Reynolds was working with the federal agency in exchange for possible consideration of his own case.

Funeral for Gun Victim

Funeral will be held Thursday for Michael Aiello, 20, of South San Francisco, who died Saturday after a shooting incident in San Bruno.

Cause of death is still under investigation by the Coroner's Office.

A native of San Francisco, Aiello had resided all his life in San Mateo County.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mario Aiello of South San Francisco; a brother, Ralph and sister Claudia, both of South San Francisco.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. from the Chapel of the Highlands in Millbrae. Inurnment will be at Woodlawn Cemetery.

Battaglia Elected New S. San Francisco Mayor

Richard A. Battaglia is South San Francisco's new mayor.

He was selected unanimously by his City Council colleagues Wednesday night to take office March 19.

Battaglia was nominated by Councilman Leo Padreddi, who then was nominated by Battaglia to be mayor pro-tem. Padreddi's appointment was unanimous.

Councilman Frank Mammini left a mid-meeting recess, so only four councilmen were present when the new mayor was chosen as the meeting's last business.

Battaglia and Padreddi were elected to the city council last year, ousting two incumbents.

Padreddi commended retiring Mayor Terry Mirri for being "the first fulltime mayor South San Francisco ever had. A lot of people don't realize that it does take lots of time. I look forward to the day when South San Francisco would have a full-time mayor."

Mirri voiced agreement.

"I don't look at the two roles of mayor and city manager as being in conflict," Mirri said, "the legislative role has so increased in the past 30 to 40 years that I think it's time that the legislative body projected itself into the community as the professionals have been doing."

He said the responsibilities of government have been becoming so complicated, "it's about time that at least one elected official take on his job full time."

Mirri said, the "professionals" have saved the West Coast from the patronage and politics of the East Coast, "and brought us good government."

Two Arrested on Narcotics Charges

Two Daly City police officers answering a disturbance call last Wednesday, arrested three persons on a variety of charges, including carrying a loaded and concealed weapon.

Arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and possession of narcotics paraphernalia was Abrellano A. Solis, 22, of San Francisco.

Paul Torres, also of San Francisco, was booked for possession of a loaded and concealed firearm, while Michael McCarte, 25, of 751 Hanover St., Daly City, was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of dangerous drugs and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Officers Les Keate and Mike Scott were called to 38 Frankfort St., about 9:30 p.m. on a possible disturbance.

On arrival, the officers allegedly smelled marijuana smoke and said they found some marijuana, narcotics paraphernalia and a loaded gun inside the house.

SERVICE AWARDS

The M. P. Brown School PTA observed its Founder's Day Program Feb. 13 in the multi-use room. Honorary Service Awards were presented. Recognition was given to Mrs. Elena Franzosa (left) and Mrs. Barbara Harvey (in background) for their service to children. Mrs. Esther LaPedis received the Honorary Service Award and pin for her outstanding service to children and youth of the community. Presenting Mrs. LaPedis with the pin is school principal, Georgina Nyhan.

Red Cross Program and School-Related Projects

Leadership development and school-related service projects are the basis for the Red Cross High School Council in San Mateo County.

Service projects in which high school students can participate — either through extra-curricular service clubs or as a supplement to required classwork — are discussed and developed by the High School Council.

Twenty-five members from 16 high schools in Jefferson, San Mateo and Sequoia Union High School Districts compose this year's council. Meetings are held monthly with Red Cross Youth Service Programs staff.

The South San Francisco Children's Center was visited recently by 13 members of the Outreach Club, the Red Cross service club at Mills High School in Millbrae. The high school students entertained the day care children with a puppet show and singing. Cookies and punch made the day even more special for everyone.

Mills High students are also busy making pillows, baby clothes, aprons and other items from Red Cross materials in Home economics classes. These items will be given to Operation School Bell, a project sponsored by the Assistance League of San Mateo County. Operation School Bell serves children from kindergarten through eighth grade in the San Mateo City Schools.

Copies of "My Do-It Book" are being made in sewing classes at Notre Dame High School in Belmont. The books are made entirely from fabric scraps supplied by the Red Cross and are a useful tool for teaching pre-schoolers how to tie and lace, zip button, snap and hook.

Woodside High School students Alice Dawson and Liz Orme have been very active in teaching First Aid for Pets to elementary school classes in various parts of the county.

At Mercy High in Burlingame, students are making flash cards with words and domino pot patterns in red ink to be used by Society Society for Crippled Children in strengthening the eye muscles of children who have Lazy Eye Syndrome.

Serramonte High Red Cross Youth volunteers recently conducted a paperback book drive. The 200 books collected will be sent to Linda Mar Convalescent Hospital and the USO Lounge at San Francisco International Airport.

Through these Red Cross service projects and others, high school students have the opportunity to give to others through sharing skills they have learned and talents they possess.

Red Cross High School Council representatives, as leaders among their peers, are responsible for promoting service projects in their own high schools and for helping to recruit additional Red Cross volunteers in their schools.

During March, Red Cross Month, high school students conduct a membership and fund campaign which this year includes a Swim-a-thon, a tennis tournament, a carnival and raffles of dinner reservations and ski lift tickets.

Guidance and leadership provided by these high school volunteers is also an inspiration for elementary school students who participate in Red Cross Elementary Days at each of the Red Cross offices in the county. High school and elementary school students work together to plan the membership and fund campaign which the elementary schools will also conduct in March.

Red Cross Youth Service Programs volunteers work closely with Red Cross teacher-advisors in their high schools. These teachers serve as a link between students and faculty members in promoting and carrying out Red Cross Youth Service projects throughout the school year.

In May each year, representatives are selected by the Red Cross from nominations from public and parochial school administrators to attend the week-long Leadership Development Center in August at Valley of the Moon Camp in Glen Ellen, Calif.

These student leaders then form the High School Council which develops and implements Red Cross service projects in high schools throughout San Mateo County.

Child Care Services Program Initiated

The city of Daly City has allocated monies to be used for child care services in designated areas of the city.

Purpose of these services is to implement a four-phase program, for children up to 14 years of age whose parents must work.

The program is now at the embryo stage, and may be in operation by mid-June or July. Mrs. Rhina Gonzalez of Daly City has been appointed community organizer. Teri Bezich, also of Daly City, will act as the program developer. Along with Juan Escobar, president of the Daly City committee for children's services, they will be visible in the community, finding a center location as well as preparing the center and the program.

It is hoped that approximately 40 children will comprise the beginning enrollment.

Residents of Daly City are urged to attend the general meeting March 3, 1975, at 7 p.m. at the War Memorial Bldg., 6655 Mission St.

For details contact Mrs. R. Gonzalez.

ALASKAN GI
ANCHORAGE, Alaska — The Meritorious Service Medal has been awarded to Captain Thomas H. Eikerenkotter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Eikerenkotter of 216 Peninsula Ave., Burlingame, at Elmendorf AFB, Alaska.

Captain Eikerenkotter, a civil engineering staff officer, was cited for his outstanding duty performance at Randolph AFB, Tex.

Now assigned at Elmendorf, he serves with the 21st Civil Engineering Squadron, a unit of the Alaskan Air Command.

The 1950 Burlingame High School graduate received his bachelor's degree in 1964 from Healds College in San Francisco.

Seniors

In Contest

Bank of America's 1975 Achievement Awards program, now heading into its opening-round, will have four seniors from Serramonte High School competing for cash awards ranging up to $1,000, Principal J. Wayne Kurlak announced.

These top-ranking students and their study fields are: Kirk Lindstrom, science and mathematics; Stuart M. Davis, liberal arts; Lori Kaplan, fine arts; and Michael Giannini, vocational arts.

In addition, 11 other seniors received certificates of merit for superior performance in specific study fields. They are: Art, Richard Lloren; Drama, Larry Chinelli; Music, Paul Zawitski; English, Devi Ananda; Foreign Languages, Marsha Aronovsky; Social Studies, Karen Kokalis; Laboratory Science, Karyn Gellen; Mathematics, Carol Marcus; Business, Elaine Yohannan; Home Economics, Debra Burney, and Trades and Industrial, Richard Fern.

The four winning seniors, who receive personally engraved plaques, will compete with winning seniors from neighboring high schools at a zone event in mid-March.

RUMMAGE SALE

Members of the United Methodist Church Women's Club (from left) Petite Sugarman, Celinda Current and Vivian Grainger arrange household items for their forthcoming rummage sale to be held at 1474 Southgate Ave., Daly City, March 7, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. The sale will benefit education, camp scholarships, and Neighbors In Need. Those willing to donate items for the sale are asked to call the church.

Violence on Television

"The average child between 5 and 15 watches violent destruction of more than 13,400 people on TV."

There is a story that is true of a man who buys $2 million worth of television advertising a year. One evening he sat down to watch television and was jolted out of his favorite chair. The first program he tuned into showed a shooting; so did the second and third and even the fourth. Disturbed he turned off the television and picked up the newspaper only to be hit over the head with a story of a murder wherein the thugs used tactics that were portrayed on a television show.

The incident brought Leo Singer of the Miracle White Co. reeling to the truth. He and other sponsors of big time television were creating "mind pollution over America."

The thought bothered Singer so much, he went before a Chicago, Ill., Lions Club and asked the members to join him in a fight to wipe out television atrocities. To show his sincerity he caused the Miracle White Co. to withdraw its sponsorship of 20 shows that seemed little more than "instructions on how to commit violence."

Since then he has received 100,000 letters of support. He has appeared on many talk shows; he carried his fight to Congress where he offered evidence that television violence and sex shows are in reality "inspiration to crime."

In response to Leo Singers campaign, a high ranking network executive countered, "It sells." That was his justification. And to further make his case the man admitted that violent crime is cheaper to produce than good family entertainment.

SUCH STATEMENTS have enlisted the support of many others who want to "clean up TV." Among them is Norman Mark, veteran Chicago Daily News television critic, who charges that television programmers actually aim the shows of violence at "kids." He writes that programs featuring murders, homosexuals, assaults on prisoners and alike are aired at 7 p.m. when "there's not a kid in the world who's not awake."

Mark and others point out that "very few children's shows have female leads. And females are shown to be criminal by nature or weak and colorless before violent type males. "When female characters are so grossly misrepresented," asks Pamela Unroe Moos, "how can young girls learn proper behavior patterns, as well as boys learn how to respond as gentlemen?"

Ms. Moos is the author of an article entitled "Television — Window to Violence" that appears in "The Lion" for February 1975. In it she points to persons and groups who, like Singer and Mark, are certain that television violence contributes to the troubles of an estimated 10 million children requiring psychiatric help.

Speaking for one of these groups, Mrs. Peggy Charrier says "What we want to do is change the priorities of broadcasters." This, then is the fight that such people hope to carry to Americans. We shall hear more of their efforts.

Margot Patterson Doss, the syndicated columnist and author of several books about the Bay Area, will be the guest reviewer at the Friends of Daly City Library meeting to be held tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the Coral Room of the Westlake Library.

Mrs. Doss, whose columns about her strolls around the Bay Area are featured in the Sunday issue of the Examiner-Chronicle, will review her latest book, Paths of Gold. Mrs. H. C. Kincaid, the book review chairwoman, indicates that Mrs. Doss will be very happy to sign copies of her books for guests at the review. Following the meeting Mrs. Doss will be the honored guest at a no-host luncheon to be held in the Boar's Head in Serramonte. Reservations may be made for the luncheon prior to the review on Thursday. Anyone interested should so indicate to Mrs. Kincaid so she will be able to arrange ample seating.

Members and guests will be able to enjoy a coffee hour in the Coral room immediately preceding the formal meeting. Mrs. Klaus Tschorsnig will be the coffee hour hostess.

MEMBERS OF THE MARY'S Help Hospital Guild will meet Friday for their monthly conclave.

The executive board and the tray favor committee will both meet at 10:30 a.m. The entire membership will be expected to assemble at a luncheon to begin at 12:30 p.m. The general meeting, under the direction of Mrs. Fran Gaffigan, will start at 1 p.m.

Members have been studying a set of additions and changes for the bylaws for several weeks and Mrs. Gaffigan requests that everyone be prepared to vote on the proposals during the general meeting.

IF YOU FEEL in the mood for a bit of bargain hunting this weekend, plan to attend the annual rummage sale to be held in the Our Lady of Mercy Parish hall on Friday and Saturday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Mrs. Michael Millane is the chairwoman; the co-chairwomen are Mrs. John Pappas and Mrs. James O'Connor. Mrs. Lloyd Madigan is the area 1 chairman and helping her will be Mrs. Gerald O'Connell, Mrs. Roland Freitas, Mrs. Richard Mudge, Mrs. Emil Ruggiero, Mrs. Robert Rickert, Mrs. Thomas Gellini, Mrs. Joseph Hayden and Mrs. Phillip Caruso.

Mrs. Edward LeBlanc will be in charge of area 2, and her helpers will be Mrs. John Minkel, Mrs. John Wallace, Mrs. James Garvey, Mrs. Robert Reich, Mrs. John McVeigh, Mrs. William Mahoney, Mrs. Albert Fambriani and Mrs. Dario Bacciocco.

Mrs. Sal Parise is area 3 chairwoman, and assisting her will be Mrs. William Feeley, Mrs. Robert Keelen, Mrs. Rene Courpet, Mrs. Fred Caracciolo and Mrs. Joseph Potter.

In area 4 Mrs. James Dougherty will be directing the efforts of Mrs. John McNulty, Mrs. Michael Cooney, Mrs. Paul Gonzalez, Mrs. Robert Hulsmann, Mrs. Michael Salvamini, Mrs. John Sullivan, Mrs. Donald Osuna and Mrs. Michael Gaffey.

The area 5 chairwoman is Mrs. James McCann, and her crew will include Mrs. John Cresalia, Mrs. Byron Davenport, Mrs. Frank Kelechava, Mrs. Albert Modena, Mrs. John Lester and Mrs. Robert Cantwell.

A CONSIDERABLE amount of excitement and happiness is in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mortensen in Westlake!

The Mortensens, who have been in this area slightly less than a year, welcomed a new son, Eric, on Feb. 8. Nine-pound Eric was welcomed home by his older sister, 4-year-old Heidi.

BIKE-ROAD-E-O days are not far off, and cub masters are being asked to reserve Saturday, March 8 for a special meeting to discuss the details of the annual bike safety program.

The Cubbing congress will begin at 11 a.m. in the West Orange Library in South San Francisco. Cub masters are asked to bring a brown bag lunch to the session which may last for several hours.

EASTER PARADE of Fashions is the name selected for the Holy Angels Women's Guild fashion show and continental luncheon to be held on March 22.

Mrs. Urbano Maffei and Mrs. Joseph Zanobini are the chairwomen of the event which will feature champagne and bubbly fashions from Barbara Richmond's "Fashions on the Go" collection.

Many guests may wish to postpone shopping for their Easter ensembles until the day of the show when everyone will have an opportunity to purchase the dresses being shown, according to Mrs. David Rushka, the publicity chairwoman for the guild.

DO YOU WANT to enliven the cuisine in your home with some new recipes?

Mrs. Murray H. Freedman of the North Peninsula Auxiliary of Florence Crittenton Services reports that the auxiliary's long awaited cookbook will soon be available.

The book will include the favorite recipes of many of Daly City's best cooks, Mrs. Freedman said.

PLANT PARTY

Celebrating the 23rd birthday of Westlake School in Daly City are members of the school PTA, Mrs. Eugene Solomon (left) and Mrs. Kenneth Dito, who, with other PTA members, took part in a Founder's Day program Saturday. Highlight of the program was a plant party. Doug Subke, of the Plant Parlour in San Francisco, spoke on how to care for house plants.

Heritage Faire Planned At County Fairgrounds

Costume makers, folk artists, entertainers, history buffs and craftsmen with a handyman's flair have been invited to help recreate part of San Mateo County's history.

The Heritage Committee of the San Mateo County Bicentennial Committee is offering interested persons the opportunity to participate in a Heritage Faire July 28 through Aug. 9.

In celebration of the nation's forthcoming bicentennial, the event will be dedicated to Colonial America and early California days, and will salute the principles and aims upon which this country was founded.

The event, which will run concurrently with the San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta, will be staged in the Community Building of the fairgrounds. It will accent crafts, activities, food and entertainment which originated either in the Colonial era or is a depiction of life in the late 1700s or early 1800s.

Volunteers are needed to assist in constructing and decorating exhibit booths for the simulated Colonial Village Faire, a non-profit presentation under the auspices of the Heritage Committee of the San Mateo County Bicentennial Committee.

Artists and craftsmen who will be attired in costume will have the opportunity to demonstrate their skills and display their handcrafts as part of the Heritage Faire scene. Because space is limited, early response from participants is requested.

Youth and adult volunteers are needed to serve as hospitality guides.

Persons or groups interested in singing, dancing, giving skits or providing other entertainment pertaining to Colonial times and events are requested to submit details of their prospective programs to the committee for consideration.

More information about the Heritage Faire may be obtained by writing the Heritage Group, American Revolution Bicentennial Committee of San Mateo County, 141 Borel Avenue, San Mateo 94402.

Symphony Guild Holds Dinner at Daly City Home

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hill opened their Daly City home Sunday's spring get-together of the Burlingame Guild of the Peninsula Symphony Auxiliary.

The event began with cocktails at 4:30 p.m. followed by a buffet dinner served at the clubhouse.

During the day, members' husbands were honored. Ruth Benson of Burlingame, junior past chairman, served as hostess.

The Burlingame Guild, the ninth of the 12 guilds of the symphony auxiliaries, was founded by Mrs. Hurlbut Sender of Leewood, Kan., a former Burlingame resident; and Mesdames Nathan Most, John Musey of Hillsborough, Jack Killalee and William Benson of Burlingame.

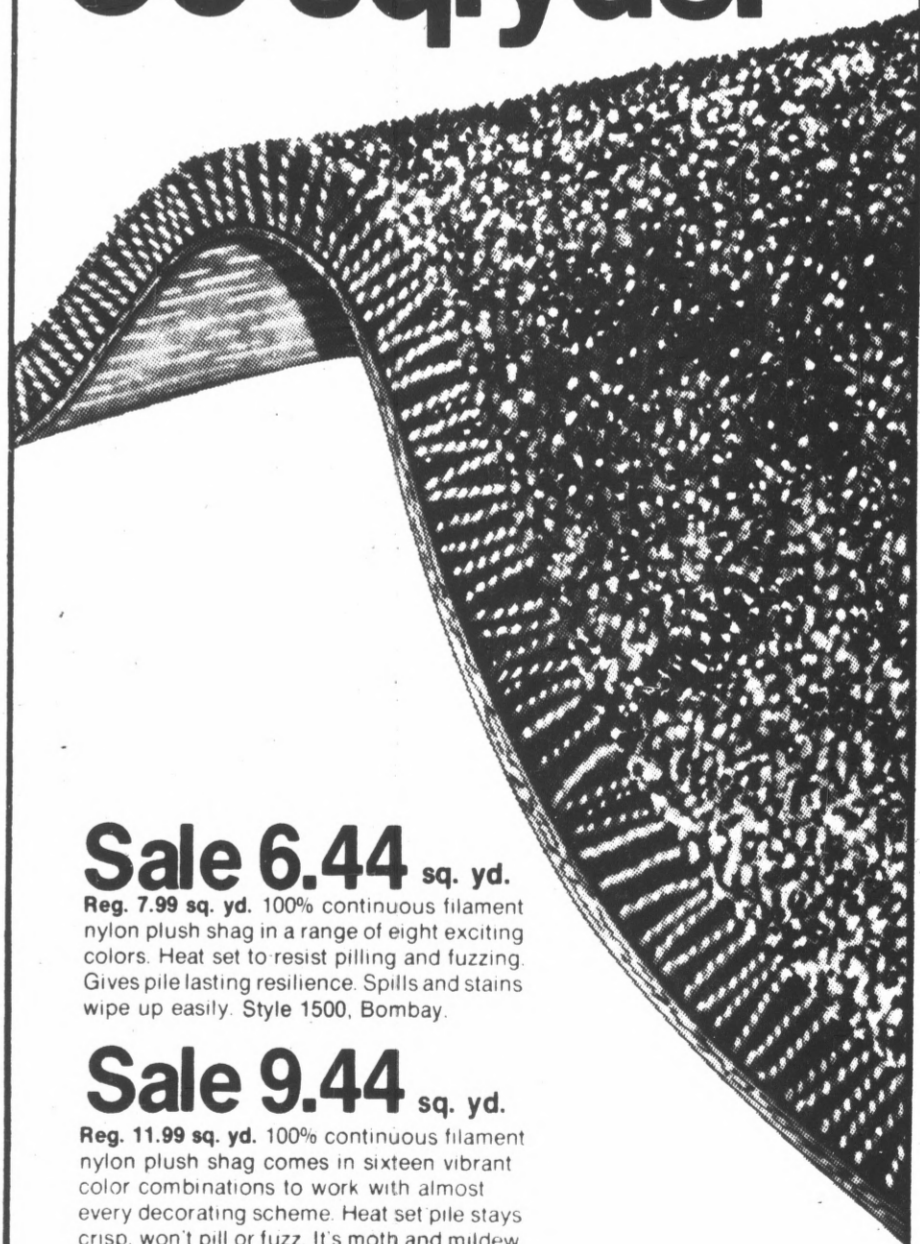

Guests at Sunday's dinner included the following: Messrs. and Mesdames Robert Davidson, Redwood City; John McWhinney, Foster City; Bertram Johnson, Belmont and Frank O'Neill of San Mateo.

Also Mrs. Paul Reed and Verena Browner of San Mateo, Mrs. Joseph Tedesco and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Most of Hillsborough, the Clifford Griffins, Jack Schoris and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bircher, all of Daly City; Mrs. Killalee and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Notz of Burlingame, George Desjardines of Pacifica and the Walter Kentzlers of Millbrae.

Good morning, good cooks.

During Lent, when Friday comes around, we start looking through our recipes for something new to serve on a meatless day. Fortunately for me, my sister recently sent me a recipe for fish which proved to be delicious, so last Friday's dinner was a simple matter. Perhaps this recipe would solve next Friday's menu dilemma for you.

BAKED FISH FILLETS

2 pounds fish fillets (sole, halibut, etc.)
2 cups white dinner wine
2 teaspoons salt
Fine, dry bread crumbs
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup commercial sour cream
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
Paprika

Marinate the two pounds fillets in the two cups white wine and two teaspoons salt for about two hours. Drain thoroughly on paper towels. Dip both sides of fillet in bread crumbs and arrange side by side in a shallow, greased baking pan.

Combine the one cup each mayonnaise and sour cream and the half cup chopped onion. Spread evenly over fish. Cover with a thin layer of more bread crumbs and sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Bake in preheated (350-degrees) oven for 10 minutes, or until fish flakes when tested with a fork. Serves six.

Whatever the season, the cookie jar empties and has to be refilled. The easiest cookies to bake are bar cookies and I recently made a batch of chocolate chip bars that were delicious.

The recipe was in a leaflet from C and H Sugar and was just one of many recipes for bar cookies. If you wish this leaflet, just send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Bar Cookies, C and H Sugar, One California St., San Francisco, Calif. 94106.

CHOCOLATE CHIP BARS

3/4 cup golden brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
1 egg
1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon each baking soda and salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package (6 oz.) chocolate pieces
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Cream the three-fourths cup brown sugar and one stick butter. Beat in the egg. Stir in the one and one-fourth cups flour, one-half teaspoon each baking soda and salt; add one teaspoon vanilla and mix. Fold in the six ounces chocolate pieces and half cup chopped nuts. Spread in a greased 15x10-inch pan (this will be a thin layer of batter). Bake in 375-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Cool slightly before cutting into 48 squares.

BOWLING-GUINEY

The marriage of Pamela Ann Bowling of South San Francisco and Timothy Joseph Guiney Jr. took place recently in Carmel. The newlyweds were honored later at a reception at the El Rancho Restaurant in Millbrae. The bride is a nurse at Kaiser Hospital. A native of Millbrae, the bridegroom is a Peninsula police officer.

The Philosophy of TV's Captain Kangaroo

"Teaching young children the inner strength of gentleness is something I try to do," began Bob Keeshan, TV's Captain Kangaroo, as he addresses an audience of some 50 PTAers in San Francisco recently.

Keeshan continued, "Kids need to learn that we don't solve life's problems with a six gun or a punch in the nose. We solve by discussion, by accommodation, and by treating others with kindness and gentleness."

Keeshan's presentation to members of the California

State PTA's Mass Media Committee, Reviewing Stand/North, has been initiated by CBS-TV as a commemoration of Captain Kangaroo's 20th year of broadcasting and as a means whereby the network could secure parental input concerning its programming.

Such an input session would not have been possible 20 years ago, according to Keeshan. Today, though, there is a ground-swell of interest in children's programming. Ever since the formation of such consumer groups as Action for Children's Television, the networks have been listening to what the public has to say.

Keeshan believes that parents and networks have a shared responsibility as far as children's programming is concerned.

"Studies have shown that a pre-school child sees 30 to 40 hours of TV a week. It's unrealistic to expect the networks to program this much TV for such a minority audience. TV is a mass medium," he continued.

"It's significant that Captain Kangaroo has lasted 20 years since we serve such a definite minority."

Keeshan expressed concern that most parents use TV as a baby sitter. "Right now, part of my reason for touring the country is to find out how parents are using TV with their children to wake up the 95 per cent of them who don't see their child's viewing habits as their responsibility."

When asked specifically what parents could do, Keeshan replied, "Endorse good programming; write or call your TV station manager. Let him know what you will accept."

A question concerning Keeshan's personal philosophy of programming led him to reply, "What am I trying to do on the program? I suppose really I'm trying to look at the whole human being. Cognitive learning — numbers, letters and the like — has its place, but I believe that emotional development at this age is very important. If a child feels good about himself, knows how he fits into society, then the world is alright. I'm not really interested in the programming of a reading machine but in the development of an individual."

Criticism of commercials was commented upon by Keeshan in that after 20 years he does have "some say" in the advertising selected for his program. The main voice, though, Keeshan maintains, belongs to the consumer.

When asked specifically what PTA could do, Keeshan responded, "You have access to thousands of parents with young children. Help educate them. Ask them to take a serious look at how they use television in their homes. Help them to understand and accept their responsibility."

SORTING RUMMAGE

The annual rummage sale to be held at the Our Lady of Mercy Parish Hall, 1 Elmwood Drive, Daly City, is scheduled. Sorting and collection of clean usable rummage are (from left) Mrs. Robert Hulsman, Mrs. John McNulty and Mrs. John Pappas. Mrs. Michael Millane, chairwoman of the event, reports the sale will be Feb. 28 and March 1 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both days. Donations of rummage, hangers, paper bags, jewelry boxes can be brought to the hall Monday through Friday during school hours.

Beth Israel Judea Sets Hebrew Naming Service

A unique ceremony will be held at services Feb. 28 at 8:30 p.m. at Congregation Beth Israel-Judea, 625 Brotherhood Way, San Francisco.

According to Jewish tradition, a Jewish child receives a Hebrew name shortly after birth. It recently was brought to congregation Rabbi Herbert Morris' attention, that many congregants and their children were never blessed with this honor. Therefore, people who have never received a Hebrew name, will take part in a special ceremony Friday.

In Biblical times, a Hebrew name expressed some thought or emotional. In the story of Creation, Adam named his wife Eve, meaning "Life" in Hebrew, because she was the "mother of all living." Throughout the ages, children were also named after animals and plants: Arie — "Lion," Deborah — "Bee," Jonah — "Dove," Tamar — "Palm Tree."

On Friday, children, parents and grandparents will be on hand to be named and blessed in the Sanctuary of Congregation Beth Israel-Judea. In honor of this occasion, the many families who will participate in the service also will host the Oneg Shabbat following the service.

Planning Begins For 'Dream Girl'

Even though summer is still months away, activity has started in preparation for this year's 23rd Annual Dream Girl Pageant sponsored by the San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta.

Each city in San Mateo County has been contacted and asked to select a group or organization that will sponsor a local beauty contest.

The winners of each local beauty contest will compete for the title of San Mateo County Dream Girl 1975 on June 27.

The winner will reign over the 41st Annual San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta July 28 through Aug. 9.

Three of the last four girls selected to represent California in the Miss America Pageant competed in the San Mateo County Dream Girl contest. Carolyn Stoner, Miss Belmont, won the Miss California crown in 1971 and Diane Wagner, Miss Daly City, represented the state in 1972. Alice Tobler, Miss Redwood City resigned from the Miss America contest in 1974 because of illness.

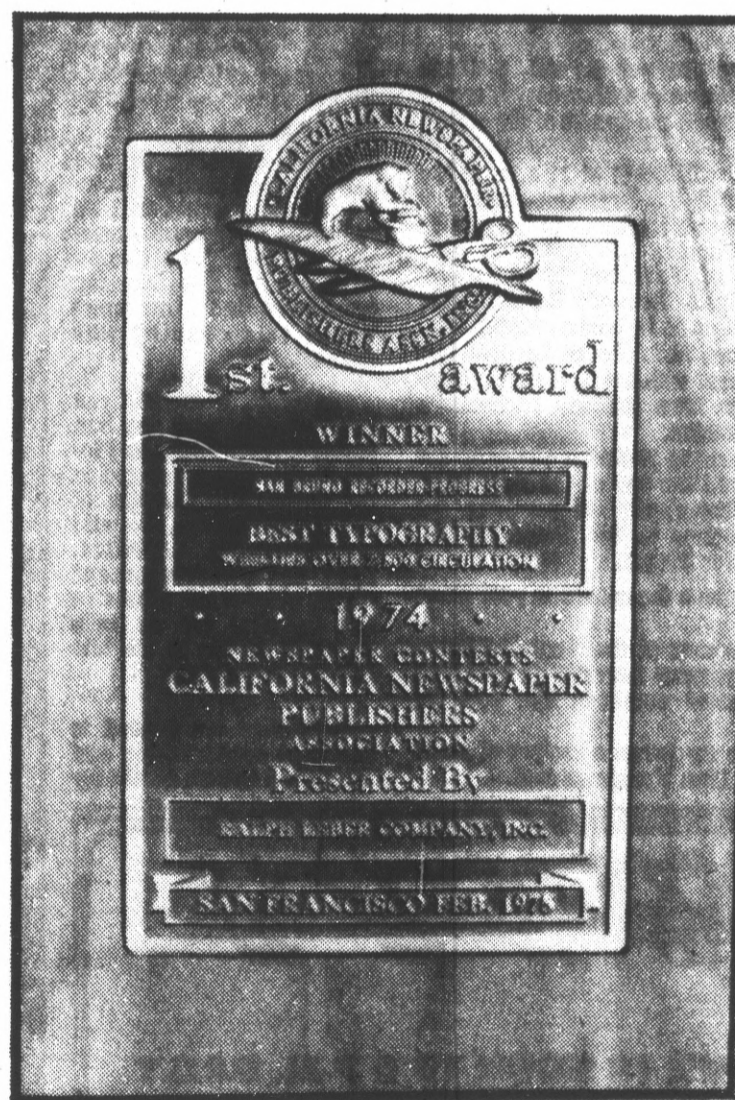

Last year's San Mateo County Dream Girl was Tina Fisch, Miss Belmont. Respective cities already designating sponsors include: Burlingame chamber, William Hauser; and Pacifica chamber, Thomas Sawyer.

SILVER WINGS
CHANDLER, Ariz. — Second Lieutenant Douglas J. Walton of 123 N. Quebec St., San Mateo, has been awarded his silver wings at Williams AFB, Ariz., after completing U.S. Air Force pilot training.

Lieutenant Walton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Walton, is being assigned to Pope AFB, N.C., for duty as a C-130 Hercules pilot with a unit of the Military Aircraft Command.

A 1969 graduate of Serra High School, the lieutenant received his B.A. degree in 1973 from California State University in San Jose and was commissioned there through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

The Recorder-Progress Wins 1st Place Award!

The California Newspaper Publishers Association awarded 1st Place for "Best Typography" to the Recorder-Progress in The Association's 1974 Better Newspaper Contest. The competition category for the award was among weekly newspapers with over 7,500 circulation.

Factors considered in the "Best Typography" judging were: The efficient use of type faces and intermix of type size in headlines and body copy; the effective use of art and illustrations and their relation to typography; the use or lack of use of borders, ornaments or other units; the general makeup and layout of the typography throughout the paper.

This award marks the fourth time the Recorder-Progress has been distinguished in State-wide competition with either a first or second place award, during the past three years. Awards have been presented by the California Newspaper Publishers Association and the California Newspaper Advertising Executives Association. The Recorder-Progress is published in conjunction with the San Bruno Herald and the Coastside Chronicle.

Scout Training Scheduled

Northern District training is set to begin Thursday evening, from 7:30 p.m. at Los Cerritos School and continue Thursdays March 6, 13, 20 and Tuesdays April 1, 8, and 15.

SME, in March will begin March 1 from dawn to dusk with a pancake breakfast kick-off for all troop SME chairmen, according to Northern District administration and SME chairman Alvin L. (Al) Schwarzbach.

Attending a recent training session for troop SME chairmen were Alan Bendon, Ellen Rasmussen, Andy Brown, Gerald Simotas, Carl T. Smith, Ernie VerHage, Mike Cox and Scouting SME family chairman Fred Adams.

Proclamations designating March as Boy Scouts of America Sustaining Membership Enrollment month were recently received from the Cities of Daly City and San Bruno as part of the current fund-raising campaign.

Cubbing and scouting were cited as "always to be found at the vanguard of character building, leadership training, conservation, physical fitness and safety programs."

All contributions to SME from both families and local businesses are tax deductible.

Cubbing Roundtable is set for 7:30 p.m. at Los Cerritos School with Cub Scout Naturalist activities scheduled for the agenda.

Tomorrow evening, Cadette and Senior Daly City Girl Scouts and adults will be hosted by Sally Raeta and Diane Holder for a special meeting of older Scouts.

The meeting is planned for 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Westmoor Club House, with Carole Ann Scott awarding the special backpacking proficiency badges some of the girls earned this past summer in the Sierra's.

Junior troop swimming also is scheduled for Thursday evening, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Jefferson High School pool, lifeguards are provided.

Soutlook, edited locally by Mrs. Becky Burke, will be mailed in bulk from the Oakland Scouting office, Feb. 28.

Monday, March 3 liaisons will meet with a few local consultants from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Hope Lutheran to discuss helps available to Daly City-Colma troops.

Reservations for Girl Scout Sunday, March 9 are now being taken by Mrs. Kathy Galvin (584-0895) for the $1 breakfast, discounted to 90 cents for those in uniform, and for the ecumenical service with Louise Courpet (992-0768) both scheduled for the Serramonte High School.

Junior Troop 333, led by Ellen Ridge and Michelle Hart recently held its rededication and candlelighting ceremony at Our Lady of Mercy Church hall.

Carolyn Kelleher, Ruth Pinelli, Marybel and Sylvia Balboa, Mary Murray, Pam Quinlan, Julie Machi, Molly McGrath, Judy Pardini, Michelle Korrane, Sandy Bignardi, Nichole Malfino, Cara Zuffo, Mary Madigan, Ann Marie Henry, Patty Winquist and Joyce Walsh were joined by parents and friends at the event.

Mariners of Girl Scout Ship No. 13, skippered by Mrs. Ralph Damon, culminated their recent landship meeting with a potluck dinner and court of awards at the Daly City War Memorial Building.

Jane Stewart, Helen Rogers, Darice Robinson, Laura Ridge, Sue Dahlin, Cathy Pasley, Kim Gustafson, Janice Hale, Mary Pat and Therissa Clark, Marian Fitzpatrick, Patty Bryne, Ellen Ridge, Leana Medina, Seona Connolly, Sue Stark, Shawna Foster, Michelle Scott and Michelle Hart were joined by mates Mrs. Mel Dahlin, Mr. and Mrs. Rusty Sharpe, Denise Lapachet, Twila Foster and Robin Christian, for movies of this active group.

Girl Scouts of Cadette troop 1620 recently performed a skit honoring the M. Pauline Brown honorary service pin recipient Mrs. Esther LaPedis at their annual PTA spaghetti dinner.

Participating were Julie Savingano, Jackie Bender, Lisa Brooke, Sharon Scott, Lisa Goodman, Michyle LaPedis, Cathy Hansel and Cindy Lewkowicz.

Brownie Troop 1810 was recently the guest of Cadettes Jackie Bender, Sharon Scott, Lisa Braski, Michyle LaPedis, Sandy and Cheri Freitas and Cathy Rankin for a special late winter holiday party.

Participating were Brownies Lorelei Morino, Yvette Scott, Cindy Pierce, Gina Cadwell, Chrissy Evanikoff, and Chrissy Gumina.

PLANNING REVIEW

Members of Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests will meet in the Coral Room of the Westlake Branch Library tomorrow to meet author, columnist and conservationist Margot Patterson Doss, whose columns about her strolls through well-known and obscure spots in the Bay Area have appeared in the Sunday issue of the Examiner-Chronicle. Members and guests will retrace Ms. Doss' steps and share her preception of these areas. Mrs. H. C. Kincaid (center), book review chairwoman, Mrs. John M. Connolly (left), president, and Mrs. Winsor Joselyn, hospitality committee and a former director, make plans in anticipation of the event, at which time Ms. Doss will review her latest book, "Paths of Gold." The public is invited to attend.

Demo Club to Sponsor Candidates Night in DC

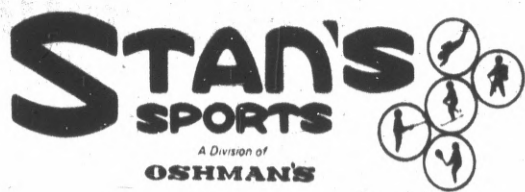

The public is invited to meet candidates for the Jefferson Elementary School Board, the Board of the San Mateo County Community College District, and the County Board of Education.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at 101 Lincoln Ave., Daly City. To reach 101 Lincoln, proceed to Westmoor High School, then go two blocks south on Edgemont to the corner of Lincoln.

The JESD Board candidates are Beverly Forrester, Michael Furch, and Alvin Schwarzbach. The candidates for the Community College District are Michael Gordon, Eleanor Nettle, Phrasel Shelton, Terese Shinn, James Tormey, and Carl Ward. Board of Education candidates are Florence Cadigan and Mary Lou Smith.

The Candidates' Night is sponsored by the Daly City Colma Democratic Club. The evening will include a question-and-answer session, and refreshments will be served. The regular monthly meeting of the Democratic Club will be at 7:30 p.m. immediately preceding the program.

Elect Dillon, Orozco To SSF Board

Voters in the South San Francisco Unified School District must choose two members for a Board of Trustees charged with maintaining a fine educational reputation while the country's economy chips away at the ability to finance its programs.

Selection of individuals with the mettle and ability to face up to the problems of the times rationally is more important now than ever before.

Because he has shown intense concern and an understanding of the monetary and educational priorities, Trustee John "Matt" Dillon should be returned to office to help solve the problems.

He has demonstrated a concern and a responsiveness to the needs of education and administration of the community's elementary, junior high and high schools.

At the same time, we recommend to South San Franciscans the election to the second board seat of David Orozco, former revenue agent and tax attorney.

Orozco, who favors community wide participation in the school district's fiscal and educational affairs, has the basic ingredients in his background necessary to help the district reach valid conclusions, keep in tune with the children's needs and maintain fiscal accountability.

Dillon and Orozco have demonstrated in their own ways that they are concerned and willing to tackle the problems and we urge their election March 4.

Hesters, Sharp for Coast Trustees

In Pacifica, parents and educators have learned, in these and other money-deficient times, to get along with less.

Nearly all of the candidates in the Laguna Salada School District Board of Trustee campaign acknowledge adequate funding to be the primary problem.

Fresh viewpoints on those fiscal and educational concerns must be coupled with the experience already evident on the LSSD board.

Incumbent Grady Hesters' one year is positive experience. He has taken advantage of opportunities to learn since his appointment to the board, and he should be placed in office for a full term by the voters.

He has not only the ability generally to get along with people, but the more important ability to listen. He wants to see "happy" children, well-educated through a variety of special learning programs. He is concerned.

So is 22-year-old Cheryl Sharp, who grew up in the Laguna Salada educational system. She is young, but vitally interested in education.

Miss Sharp is a thoughtful, intelligent, young woman. Her ideas and her youth should be sought out by those who reside in the district.

Vote March 4 for Miss Sharp and incumbent Grady Hesters.

Forrester, Schwarzbach For Jefferson Board

The Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees, after enduring several years of controversy and segmentism, is taking on a new shape in Daly City-Colma.

An experienced Board of Trustees seems intent on providing the best education possible for your children at the most reasonable cost possible to the taxpayers.

Much of this improvement has been through the common-sense inquisitiveness and community concerns of incumbents Beverly K. Forrester, the present chairman of the board, and banker Alvin Schwarzbach.

Factionalism on the board no longer is predictable, and whatever their individual differences, the trustees appear to be working together during economically straining times to mold a responsively administered educational program of value to the children.

For the most part, Mrs. Forrester and Schwarzbach have maintained a profound daily interest in the district's educational and administrative problems, trying to fulfill an obligation to not only the children, but to their parents and the bill payers, as well.

The knowledge that permits these hard-working individuals to grow with their trusteeships, the persistence and honesty with which they pursue their responsibilities and the craving for community involvement must not be overlooked at the polls March 4.

Re-election of these two experienced, dedicated trustees is essential if the JESD educational climate is to continue on its present upgrading course.

Vote for incumbents Forrester and Schwarzbach March 4.

Public Voice

Thanks

Editor, The Post:

In behalf of the participants of the Daly City Nutrition Project I would like to express my honest gratification to the officers and members of the Eagles Aerie No. 1848, of 3344 San Jose Ave. Daly City, for their kindness and consideration in allowing us the use of their building five days per week from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. We are serving 110 meals each noon to Daly City Senior Citizens at this location and the Eagles are not charging any rent, and we believe this proves they practice what they preach. "Help your fellow being."

The Department of Recreation is helping us out by paying $50 monthly for utilities and we thank Mr. Vincent for his added help during construction of addition to the Lincoln playground.

JULIUS F. CASTELAN, Daly City.

Transit

Editor, The Post:

Are we living in a no man's land, transportation-wise? Our bus service is the most inadequate in America. When is the P.U.C. going to settle our bus difficulties? They sit there and let those of us who can't drive suffer, with their wait-and-see-what-happens policies. They know quite well what will happen. Nothing! The last two months have proved that.

I have returned from work on BART and stood for over an hour waiting for a bus that never showed up. So I had to walk home and at the end of a long tiring day, this is enough to make anyone leave Daly City for good. I and my family and some neighbors are looking for a place to live out of Daly City, simply because we have to have some means of transportation.

We like Daly City and really want to remain here, but lack of public transportation of any kind is forcing us out. How many others are leaving for the same reason?

How many are walking to Mission and using Greyhound?

Can't or won't Daly City do something to keep its decent, hard-working residents? Or is City Hall like the transportation systems and the P.U.C. and doesn't really give a damn as long as they have their private cars and nice fat pay checks?

CARMEN KELLY, Daly City

Beach Acquisition Pushed in Pacifica

The Pacifica City Council has launched a campaign for public acquisition of 4½ miles of beaches.

Short stretches of the beaches are already in public ownership, but most of them belong to private parties who plan to eventually develop them for homes, apartments and business purposes.

In a joint session Feb. 18, the council and the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission voted to ask their legislators for purchase of as much of the beaches as possible.

Under one open space program, the county and state each would contribute 25 percent to the costs, while the federal government would pay the rest. Another possibility, to be explored, is addition of the beaches to the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The City Council asked the PB&R Commission to purchase a beach rake, powered by a four-wheel drive vehicle, to keep the beaches clean. The PB&R, however, first must compile operation costs, including pay-roll, and present recommendations on the plan.

In discussing different machines, Councilwoman Janice Fulford urged that rocks be left on the beach because "they're what holds the beach together." While Commissioner Norman Milner urged purchase of a machine which would pick up glass, since broken glass is the chief reason his family does not go to local beaches.

"I don't see how a machine can differentiate between glass and rocks," he declared.

But the councilmen and commissioners could not agree that the beach machine should be used on private beaches.

"People who use the beaches don't know if it's private or public," Commissioner Elden D. Dellanina said. "They do know they're filthy."

Helping To Change Behavior

The Service League of San Mateo County is seeking new grant funds to continue a project aimed at teaching sheriff's deputies assigned to correctional facilities how to use transactional analysis to help defendants change their behavior.

George Deabill, project coordinator, told the Criminal Justice Council of San Mateo County this week that deputies initially balked at the program.

Asked by Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson if the deputies have shown any enthusiasm in the project, Deabill responded, "I believe they have. It varies with each man."

The Service League, which performs humanitarian deeds for inmates, is among dozens of private and governmental agencies vying for a share of $4.9 million of state correctional-related program grant monies. Allocation decisions are expected to be made in early March. The League is seeking $58,000.

The program started last Aug. 1 with deputies assigned at the County's Honor Camp near La Honda, to where many convicted defendants are sentenced.

Bill Phlegue of the Service League said the aim of the project is to teach transactional analysis to deputies assigned at the main jail at the Hall of Justice, and at work furlough.

Part of the program includes attitude and personality tests given to both inmates and deputies. The deputies help counsel the inmates. The objective is to reduce the rate of repeaters in the criminal system.

Police said former Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore initially backed the project — which also includes help from ministers — and that Sheriff John R. McDonald also supports it.

Sorenson said, "It's one thing for the sheriff to support the project, and another for those who get the training to express whether it is worth it. No matter how much the sheriff supports it, if those under training don't, it will do no good."

The D.A. said it might be advisable for the council to hear from the deputies.

Deabill said he would ask the deputies to rate the program, which the council ultimately "endorsed" in its bid for state grant funds.

Mexican Art Tours the West

Hughes Airwest, San Mateo-based airline which brought an exhibition of contemporary Mexican art to this county last fall, has become a supplier of art to the entire western United States.

The 34 prints, lithographs and woodcuts brought to San Mateo from Jalisco, Mexico, are now on a tour of western U.S. cities, scheduled by the Western Association of Art Museums.

Having been shown in San Mateo county's "Corridor Gallery" in the San Mateo County Courthouse at Redwood City, and in the "Octagon Gallery" in Daly City's City Hall, and at Airwest's international headquarters in San Mateo recently, the 34 Jalisco art works were packaged for the trip to Cuesta College at San Luis Obispo.

They were originally brought to San Mateo County after being selected in Guadalajara by College of San Mateo art instructor Vince Rascon, and by Kent Seavey, then gallery director for the San Mateo County Arts Council.

The tour is sponsored by the National Endowment for the Arts, the Western Association of Art Museums, the San Mateo County Arts Council, and the airline, which has become involved in several ventures related to the art of Mexico.

"Many United States citizens have not had the opportunity to see any Mexican art, other than the touristy things like the bullfighter painted in fluorescent colors on black velvet, or the older things of a little man in white pajamas leaning on a cactus," explains Margarita Gostyla, Mexico sales representative for Hughes.

The current showing of modern Mexican art goes from San Luis Obispo to Washington State University at Bellingham, to Oregon State at Eugene, and to several other states in 1975.

Meanwhile, the airline has assisted CSM instructor Vince Rascon in exhibiting in Guadalajara, is working with him and the Mexican State of Jalisco's Fine Arts Department to develop a mural for the San Jose City College theatre.

Rascon and a Mexican muralist will paint the design on three sides of the theatre, when arrangements are concluded.

The airline is attempting "a cultural exchange" of television programs between College of San Mateo and the Department of Fine Arts in Guadalajara, and is considering exchanges of music, poetry, and literature, said Miss Gostyla.

"I think we've taken some steps in correcting some cultural impressions of Mexico," she said, "and we enjoy doing it."

She suggests that the results of such efforts are difficult to measure at the ticket counter, although there are occasional direct benefits such as the Northern California Art Educator's Conference, in Hermosillo, March 23 to 25.

There is also a "focus on the culture of Mexico for the Bicentennial celebration in San Jose," she says.

"After all, if you go back 200 years in California, you go back into Mexico."

The Files Are Still Open County's Unsolved Mysteries

By DUANE SANDUL
Carola Hartog of Hillsborough was walking her dog along Dunes Beach in Half Moon Bay one day in 1989 when someone attacked her. She stumbled to a ranch nearby, and told the owner, "I've been assaulted. Call the sheriff." A few hours later, she was dead.

An autopsy showed that Mrs. Hartog, 44, had been stabbed with an ice pick under her breast. She lived long enough to describe her assailant.

Her murderer is still free. Rudy Siemssen, the chief homicide inspector for San Mateo County, rates the Hartog case as one of the longest unsolved murders in modern county history.

On Nov. 2, 1945, Campbell High School teenager Thora Chamberlain disappeared. Three years later, her convicted slayer, Thomas H. McMonigle, was executed.

Still today, Miss Chamberlain's body has never been found. Frank Raymond, who retired in 1972 after 46 years as a reporter for the San Francisco Examiner in San Mateo County, received a map from McMonigle indicating where he had buried the girl's body.

It indicates that the body is buried under where the Bekins building in Burlingame now is, but even Raymond doesn't believe it. Deputies had searched an area near there where McMonigle had said the body was buried.

Carola Hartog is a statistic — an unsolved homicide. Thora Chamberlain is even a rarer statistic — an unsolved mystery.

"Technically, the 'case' is still open on both of the examples. But in practicality, no one has investigated the killing of Carola Hartog since 1961. And the search for Thora Chamberlain's body ended almost two decades ago.

Siemssen, who has investigated homicides in the unincorporated areas of San Mateo County for more than 13 years, says an average of one out of every four homicides in the county remains a mystery.

He may know or suspect who the killer is — but without evidence, it's an unsolved homicide.

In the Carola Hartog case, hundreds of persons were interviewed in attempts to establish "leads." None of them paid off. Still a mystery is why and how her dog became locked in the men's room at the beach.

A homicide case is only closed when a suspect is arrested, or a known suspect is dead, coupled with reasonable proof that he committed the crime. Siemssen had had one such case, although he cannot name it.

"Since I've been working homicides, it seems if you get something working within the first five days, there's a good chance that an arrest will result," Siemssen said.

Then there are cases like the March of 1973 slaying of Janet Taylor, the daughter of former Stanford University Athletic Director Chuck Taylor. She was hitchhiking, and a woman witness remembered later having seen her standing at a particular corner. Her strangled body was found near Woodside.

There were no eyewitness or physical evidence. Miss Taylor's purse and bracelet are still missing. Unless they turn up, her case will be one of those open, but suspended files.

During his 13-plus years, Siemssen has headed 53 homicide investigations. Most of them in this county, he said, are killings "within the immediate family, or by friends."

The second biggest category of types of homicides, Siemssen said, is the dumping of bodies from other jurisdictions along the Coastside.

And what leads to the arrest of most persons charged with murder?

"Generally speaking," Siemssen said, "most people like to talk about their handiwork to those near or dear to them."

But not in the Carola Hartog case or cases like hers; those remain "suspended," but yet open, while a killer lives with a secret.

And then there are cases which are categorized as missing persons.

The mystery is just as intense, if not more, as in the Thora Chamberlain case. There are times when persons simply vanish — no clues, no hints of "foul play," no nothing.

For example, Siemssen recalls the case of Joan E. Holmberg and Carroll Eugene Barton, both 31, a boyfriend-girlfriend from Redwood City.

As they had done often during their one year friendship, Barton and Miss Holmberg drove the San Mateo Coastside on Jan. 20, 1965, to run Barton's German Shepherd. They have never been seen since.

The next day, sheriff's deputies found Miss Holmberg's car at Martin's Beach south of Half Moon Bay, with the key in the ignition, the dog in the back seat and her purse in the front seat.

There was no evidence or clues as to the whereabouts of the two. They still today are presumed to have both drowned accidentally, according to Siemssen.

For years, all of the bodies which washed up along the Coast in both California and Oregon were checked with the identity of the missing duo.

Says Siemssen, "For every body which washes up, three probably don't." And he adds, "There are times when all we find is a torso, or a skeleton or bones."

There's no way to identify."

Just as baffling is the disappearance of John F. McCarthy on Feb. 10, 1966. McCarthy was a retired Army master sergeant, who was disabled and depended on a cane to walk and get about. He and his wife lived in Montana.

Every so often, McCarthy received his veteran's check, and went to a bank to deposit it in Pacifica. He did such on that February day.

From there, he got gasoline in his Opel station wagon at the corner of Sharp Park Road and Skyline Boulevard.

What then happened to him remains a mystery today.

McCarthy's car was soon found, wedged between two trees on a dirt road in the San Francisco Watershed Property near the Skyline Cemetery. It was in such a position, that for him to have exited the car, he would have had to climb out through the tailgate.

"As crippled as he was, I don't see how he could have walked more than 500 feet," Siemssen recalls.

A massive manhunt for days failed to turn up any clues. There were no fingerprints in the car other than those of McCarthy. He never picked up hitchhikers. There was nothing in his personal life depressing him.

Siemssen still today has no feeling that McCarthy was the victim of foul play. "He could have had a seizure, or a stroke," Siemssen said, scratching his head. "Who knows?"

Ryan Questions Viet Proposals

The premise that three more years "of monetary infusions will enable South Vietnam to exist independent of further outside assistance" has been questioned by Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, in a letter to President Ford.

Ryan said in his letter to Ford: "I note that you have called for Congressmen to go to Indochina and see the situation for themselves. I have just returned from an inspection tour in South Vietnam where I found the situation to be at variance from the reports either by Ambassador Graham Martin or by some of my fellow members of Congress opposed to further involvement. My own conclusions are different from both points of view."

While I am sure that South Vietnam needs the additional $300 million you have requested this year, I seriously doubt Ambassador Martin's conclusion that three more years of these infusions will enable South Vietnam to exist independent of further outside assistance. If that is the premise your administration is using to argue for continued support of next year's budget outlay, I must tell you that I have ample cause to doubt its validity."

Ryan has been roundly criticized in his home 11th Congressional District for his support of the $300 million interim appropriation by persons fearing a U.S. re-involvement in the Southeast Asian conflict.

Ryan said earlier that his 22-day Asian tour convinced him that the U.S. either must be prepared to support the South Vietnamese for many years or cut off aid now.

Ending aid in three years would be a waste of money, Ryan said, because it wouldn't be sufficient. But the cutoff "must be... with the knowledge that the likely result will be a Communist takeover," he said.

County in Wage Pact

The first 1975 wage agreement with a county employee organization was approved Feb. 18 by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors. It provides for a 9 per cent salary increase for members of the Deputy District Attorneys Association, plus an increase in various benefits.

The amount of county contribution for a health and hospitalization plan was increased to a maximum of $38 a month per employee, county payment for a dental plan was increased to $12 a month per employee, and payment for use of a private automobile on county business was increased to 15 cents a mile.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes said the memorandum of agreement also calls for county payment of association members' dues to the California State Bar Association.

He said there is a provision whereby association members agree to a bi-weekly payroll system which may be instituted by the county when a new computer system is fully operational.

"Why I buy Armour Lunch Meat" by Lynn Anderson.

My daughter Lisa. Born December 3, 1970. She's the first reason I look for top-quality lunch meat.

The ingredients. Read the list yourself sometime. You'll see that Armour Lunch Meat is made of fine meat. There's no cereal. It's got the protein you want your kids to eat.

Government Inspected. Armour Lunch Meat is 100% U.S. government inspected for wholesomeness. Not every brand of lunch meat is.

Lynn Anderson is famous as the Country Western Singer who "never promised you a Rose Garden." But few people know she's a wonderful mother as well. Lynn Anderson, like millions of American working mothers, knows the importance of caring enough to be concerned about the foods children eat.

So next time you buy a package of Armour Lunch Meat, you'll know you're in good company.

County Hospital Closings Told

San Mateo County is one of five California counties in danger of closing its county hospital, a non-profit consumer advocate group said Thursday in San Francisco.

During a press conference at San Francisco General Hospital, Dr. Thomas Bodenheimer and Elinor Blake outlined a 250-page report just completed by the Health Policy Advisory Center.

They said San Mateo, Humboldt, Placer, Yolo and Yuba counties are "strong possibilities" for early closing of county hospitals.

Sixteen of the state's former 49 county hospitals have either been closed or transferred to other management since 1970, they said.

Eight more counties have discussed closing their hospitals, including San Francisco, Santa Clara and Sonoma in the Bay Area.

Dr. Bodenheimer's report, "Closing the Doors on the Poor," claims that county hospitals are being shut down because of pressure from private hospitals and because of the general money shortage.

In San Mateo County, the report said, "a coalition" of individuals closely connected to the county's private hospitals, is urging closure of Harold D. Chope Community Hospital.

Last ditch opposition of groups representing poor people in San Mateo County, saved the Chope hospital from closing, the report said, but a future threat remains.

Dr. Bodenheimer said numerous studies show that San Mateo County has too many hospital beds and recommended closing one of the private hospitals.

He suggested Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo as the most likely candidate for closing because it is "aging."

Dr. Bodenheimer said processes that lead to closing a county hospital are apparent in San Mateo County.

The process of contracting out certain health services is often the first step, he said.

"Examples include the contracting of obstetrics by San Mateo County to Stanford Medical Center," he said.

Copies of the report may be obtained from the Health Policy Advisory Center, 558 Capp St., San Francisco, he said.

One of the report's more important points, he suggested, is that the closing of county hospitals leads to the "closing out" of many people.

Often, counties fail to provide for poor people to get free or low-cost health service in private hospitals, after the public institutions are closed, he said.

As a result, 2.3 million Californians, who have no health insurance or are not eligible for Medi-Cal or Medicare, face the threat of "exorbitant" doctor and hospital bills, or simply being turned away without medical treatment when they need it.

HISTORY SPEAKER

Last week was Black History Week, and the event was celebrated at George Washington School in Daly City. Students gathered during an assembly to hear black trial attorney Phrasel L. Shelton speak about past and present Black heroines and heroes. Above, Shelton, a candidate for a seat on the San Mateo Community College District Board, speaks informally with George Washington School students.

Pacifican Urges Homeowner Unity

An offer to "start the ball rolling" on organization of a San Mateo County Homeowners Association was made over the weekend by Fred Howard, president of the Fairmont Homeowners Association of Pacifica.

Howard said that he has already been consulting with officials of several homeowners groups and that they have all expressed an interest in a county-wide organization. Many of the objectives of his group, he said, parallel aims of other local homeowner groups, which can better be achieved by all the groups working together.

Among projects which he envisioned for such a group, would be assessing practices, county parks acquisition, the Fair Housing Act and SB 90 — tax reform law.

County Police Chiefs Return from Conference

A majority of San Mateo County's police chiefs as well as its Sheriff, John McDonald, returned this week from Palm Springs, where they gathered for a week-long seminar.

Foster City Police Chief John Norton, president of the San Mateo County Chiefs of Police Association, said that the seminar may have been the first of its kind.

Sponsored and financed by the California Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training, it brought the chiefs together for the purpose of improving law enforcement operations and bettering police services and correctional operations within counties.

The seminar may have been the first in the country, said Norton, where "a majority of county law enforcement chief executives met as a group in a formal setting with the intent to improve and to upgrade services to the community (in this case the entire county), to eliminate duplication of professional effort and to better economize operations.

The seminar was conducted under the auspices of the Administration of Justice Program, Golden Gate University, San Francisco.

A Chance to Vote Before Registering

A proposal to allow qualified voters to vote without pre-registering is being put forth today by Marvin Church, San Mateo County clerk-recorder.

Church is making his recommendation to scrap present state voter registration laws before a meeting of the California County Clerks Association at the Hilton Inn, San Francisco International Airport, he is first vice president of the association.

Church said he is making the revolutionary proposal as a means of countering voter apathy and as an alternate to the federal proposal for postcard registration of voters.

The county clerk-recorder said under his proposed plan qualified voters could go to their polling place, identify themselves by means of a driver's license, a Department of Motor Vehicles identification card or a voter identification card issued by his office, and vote.

Voters would be required to sign an affidavit at the polling place certifying that they are 18 or over, a U.S. citizen and not a felon on parole.

The voters also would list their address to assure they are voting in the right precinct, and would list their party affiliation.

Absentee ballots would be provided, along with an affidavit, when requested. On election day, a list of absentee voters would be supplied precinct election officials.

Church said that sample ballots would be sent to each household in the county, addressed to "occupant." Also, a composite sample ballot could be published in newspapers.

Following the first election under his proposed system, Church stated, signed affidavits would be run through a computer to establish listings by parties for future candidates mailing purposes.

Affidavits would be maintained from one election to the next and utilized for petition verification and qualification of political parties by petition. Affidavits from a previous election would be automatically purged following the next election.

Noting the declining voter registration being experienced throughout the state and that interest in an election is generally developed in the last 7 to 10 days before election day, Church said his plan could create a higher voter turnout than under present conditions.

The county clerk said also that his plan is preferable to the proposed postcard registration because it offers controls "as sound as the present system," the proposed postcard registration doesn't offer such controls, he asserted.

Church reported that Secretary of State March Fong has "expressed interest" in his proposal.

He stated that his plan would require one more election official per precinct (a total of five).

Pollution Control Inclusion Asked

General plans for counties and cities in the Bay Area should be expanded to include air pollution control elements, a parking management workshop sponsored by the Association of Bay Area Governments asserted Friday in Redwood City.

The Bay Area cannot obtain clean air without land use and transportation planning, stated Ann Renner, a member of the state Air Resources Board.

She noted that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency says the country must develop an air quality maintenance plan and that it wants to do this through local planning agencies.

It is being proposed, she said, that regional planning include air quality, that emissions surveys be made and that goals be set for clean air. Planning would be subdivided into local areas and would influence land use, particularly as to the restriction of parking to discourage use of automobiles.

Patricia Port, a representative of the Environmental Protection Agency, said that there is an air quality problem in the Bay Area and the key factor lies in the use of the private motor vehicle.

The problem can only be solved by reducing the number of (private auto) trips and the length of trips, she asserted.

Local government, she said, needs to become "intimately involved" in seeking to solve the problem.

The Redwood City meeting was one in a series planned in the nine Bay Area counties to familiarize government officials and the public for the need of considering air pollution factors in land use planning.

The Treasury Sets Largest Opening

One of the largest-ever openings of retail store space under the same name on the same day will occur March 5 when six The Treasury family department stores encircling the San Francisco Bay Area celebrate simultaneous grand openings, it was reported Wednesday.

The Treasury is a division of the J. C. Penney Co. Inc. Each of the stores averages more than 145,000 square feet, with the total for all six being 889,541 square feet. All are free-standing stores on a total of 83 acres of land.

They are in Pleasant Hill, San Leandro, Newark, San Jose, Sunnyvale and South San Francisco.

Manager of the South San Francisco store, at 180 East El Camino Real, will be John G. Paterson, and Ronald Wright will be manager of the Sunnyvale store, 150 East El Camino Real.

The Treasury stores are designed as one-stop shopping centers under one roof.

Each includes a department store and an automotive service center.

Full lines of wearing apparel, shoes and accessories for men, women and children highlight The Treasury's offering in general merchandise areas. Other large departments are devoted to fine jewelry, sporting goods, photography, toys and games, portable home entertainment equipment, home furnishings and decorating accessories.

Also included are departments for lawn and garden equipment and supplies, paint, tools and hardware, a pet shop, stationery, records, luggage and health and beauty aids.

For those on the run, a snack bar is located near the front of each store.

Auto centers will offer automotive maintenance plus a complete selection of tires, batteries and accessories.

J.C. Penney charge cards are accepted at all The Treasury stores.

County Republicans Set Battle Plans

A precise battle plan to make the Republican Party a countywide factor in elections was agreed to by an enthusiastic gathering of the San Mateo County Republican Central Committee recently in Millbrae.

New Central Committee Chairman Russ Collier's list of proposals for revitalizing subcommittees and improving the party image was approved at the El Rancho Inn by the overflow crowd of more than 50 persons, the largest central committee turnout in years.

"Republicans are going to stop standing around just talking to each other," Collier told the group.

Contributions are ahead of last year but "I think the days of the big contributions are over," Collier said.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Superior Cuisine At Superior Palace

T. W. Eng, owner of the Superior Palace, is very proud of the handsome new building which houses his San Francisco restaurant. He had it built to order at the cost of a small fortune, and it has certainly developed into a worthwhile investment. The menu is printed in both Chinese and English, which suggests that a large percentage of the patronage here is of Chinese ancestry and that speaks well for the authenticity of the Chinese cuisine. "It's like old times," says Louella Cook, general manager of Martine's Steak Pit in Millbrae. With Dave Dodd currently entertaining in the lounge, it takes Louella back to the days when she owned a club in Belmont called The Casino. Dave was appearing at a nearby niter and used to stop in her club for dinner every Friday and Saturday nights. Defeat the high cost of dining out by taking the family to Tanforan Park's Nine Garden Restaurants in San Bruno. Clip the coupon appearing in Bright Lights today and save 50 cents on any purchase over one dollar at any one of the restaurants located within the complex. Valid through March 15, the coupon must be presented after 4 p.m., Mondays through Fridays only.

GRACIOUS GREETER

Pretty Raj Roopnarine is the always-smiling hostess who welcomes guests at Adrian Stickney's Shirt Tail, Palo Alto, in the evenings.

Moonraker Offers Nautical Dining

The Moonraker, a handsomely decorated restaurant affording a vista view of the Pacific's splashing breakers on the shores of Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, continues to attract diners from all over the Bay Area with its continental fare and friendly atmosphere. Also drawing countless numbers to this nautical scene is Captain Charles, located on the lower level of the same building. A recent addition to the Gust family's restaurant center, this gourmet seafood restaurant offers an impressive menu selection. One of the most graciously appointed dining rooms on the coast is that of Nick's Restaurant, which has been well regarded since its opening. Breakfasters stow away hearty meals guaranteed to carry them through the morning hours. Luncheon offers another grouping of inviting victuals, and dinner can be an unforgettable experience. There is also dinner-dancing, with popular Jimmy Payer and his velvet tones making it all musically worthwhile while. The frosting on the cake is when Mary Ann Hay steps into the spotlight to sing one of her old torch numbers or to put punch to a pop standard.

Ronnie Lehr Adds Color To Hubby's Steakery

Dinner in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco is a treat for the eyes as well as the palate. Phil just added two stunning new paintings by his talented wife, Ronnie, to the permanent art exhibit that graces the walls. They're portraits of clowns in stark black and white — very dramatic! Progress moves right along at Romano's Italian restaurant in Pacifica's picturesque Rockaway Beach, which abounds with Enrico Romano's vigor and friendliness. Although Enrico never permits changes so abrupt that old customers will fail to feel at home, he has gradually introduced more and more Italian specialties to his menu. The atmosphere of the past has been retained at Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City, and the traditional spirit of hospitality is evident in the courtesy of the owners and staff. A selective menu suggests such entrees as Prime Ribs of Beef (as you like it), Broiled Mahi Mahi covered with almonds, and a variety of steaks. A cross-section of the restaurant's clientele includes famous educators, politicians, film, television and theater stars, and local residents, as well as the traveler to the Peninsula.

Additional Act Moves Into Finocchio Revue

Joe and Eve Finocchio, who own the world-famous night club bearing their name in San Francisco, have added another act to their current "Spotlight on Show Business" revue. Coming direct from Jamaica, the new entertainer is to be seen on the weekends only. Four complete shows nightly, Wednesdays through Sundays anytime, anywhere — and there is always a bonus plan, which varies with the travel packages. Driving to South Lake Tahoe? You start out a "winner" if you take advantage of Nevada Tours' Drive-up Package. For information and reservations, call Kay (345-0488). Whether you prefer fish baked, poached, fried, broiled or creamed, the "Treats of the Sea" served at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant are excellent wherever prepared. The superior service given by the Licata's well trained staff is as indicative of their standards as is the array of seafood and Italian selections. Lehr's Greenhouse garden restaurant is one of San Francisco's largest users of fresh papayas. Owner Murray Lehr flies in 72 cases of papayas from Hawaii each week. They go into the luscious salads served at the Greenhouse during luncheon, and they're featured on the gourmet salad bar at dinnertime.

SSF Awards City Hall Plaza Contract

South San Francisco City Council Wednesday night awarded the contract for construction of a City Hall Plaza to contractor Al Martin of South San Francisco for $27,182.

Martin's was the lowest of five bids, for which the project estimate was $25,000. It was the second time the project was put to bid. A lone bidder's previous bid of $28,300 was rejected.

Mayor Terry Mirri asked Dick Milkovich, director of parks and recreation, to explain why the project had ballooned from a proposal for a simple roof over a park bench for oldsters to rest and expected to cost considerably less.

The project must be compatible with the classic City Hall, built in 1917. Mr. Milkovich said, and therefore had to be built of brick.

Several benches, provision for a table, a large leveled area and a brick retaining wall, as well as decorative lattice-work, landscaping, drainage, and remodeling of a rather plain restroom are included in the project.

As presently planned, it will serve not only oldsters but shoppers and those working in the area.

"When your institutions degenerate," Mirri said, "respect for government degenerates."

Martin also was awarded a contract for an emergency exit and stairway on the third floor of the City Hall. He bid $6,984, lowest of three submitted. The engineer had estimated the cost at $8,000. It was to have been part of a City Hall addition previously rejected because of its spiraling costs.

Fresh controversy flared over bids to remove five structures from the site of the fire-police facility at Chestnut and Grand avenues.

The council awarded the job to three different firms: Myron Demolition and Excavation, $2,275 for removal of homes at 910 and 940 Grand Ave.

Ken J. Industries, $2,313 to remove the eight-unit apartment house at 323 Chestnut Avenue.

Coast House Movers of Pacifica, to remove the home at 936 Grand Ave., the city receiving $251.

Several contractors protested rejection of their bids because they had submitted 10 per cent bid bonds on instead of $1,000 bonds. The director of public services, Frank Addiego, said the $1,000 requirement was plainly written in the project specifications. However, Bob Bottikan of Menlo Park, representing several contractors, said the invitations to bid mentioned the customary 10 per cent bonds.

Addiego said that the $1,000 requirement was included because 10 per cent bonds would not have provided substantial monetary safeguards.

Councilman Leo Padreddi, who has opposed the civic center plaza project, also urged that all of the demolition bids be thrown out.

However, Pete Pereira, owner of Coast House Movers, warned that any delay would result in higher bids, since vandals probably would damage the vacant houses. The council heeded his warning with a vote to approve.

Padreddi told the council that it previously had denied renewal of an option to buy the homes by the sellers of the property. "Instead," he said, "we are now paying to have them destroyed."

Wheels for another Civic Center project started rolling when the council approved plans and specifications and called for bids for installation of an anti-siphon device at Civic Center.

The county health department had warned the city that drinking fountains at City Hall might yield contaminated water.

No sum was mentioned but new lines must be installed to all the buildings at Civic Center and must be separated from the sprinkler system. The council was told.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

(Advertisement for Bids)

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, State of California, will receive sealed bids for Remodeling of Health and Welfare Headquarters Building, 225 - 37th Avenue, San Mateo, California for the County of San Mateo (Project No. 3420-507 and 3422-508).

2. Each bid shall be in accordance with drawings, specifications and contract documents prepared therefor now on file with the Purchasing Agent, County of San Mateo, County Office Building, 500 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California.

3. Drawings, Specifications and contract documents may be examined and copies obtained at the Office of the Director of Building Construction and General Services, 500 Hamilton Street, County Office Building, Redwood City, California.

4. Bidders are responsible to see that they obtain a complete set of plans, specifications and contract documents covering the work upon which they submit a bid.

5. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished and bound in the specifications and in accordance with regulations, as set forth in the General Conditions, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond for ten per cent (10%) of the bid as noted in said General Conditions.

6. Bids shall be sealed and filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo at the Hall of Justice and Records, Redwood City, California, on or before the 18th day of March, 1975, at 2:00 p.m. and will be opened in public in the Chambers of said Board of Supervisors at or about 2:00 p.m. of that day in said Hall of Justice and Records.

7. The Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, State of California, reserves the right to reject any and all bids, alternate bids, or unit prices and/or waive any irregularities in any bid received.

8. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

9. WAGE RATES: The Board of Supervisors has determined and has published the rates of prevailing wages in the County of San Mateo, in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform the contract. Said prevailing rates are set forth on listing, copies of which are set forth in the specifications for the work, in the offices of the Board of Supervisors, Purchasing Agent and Director of Building Construction and General Services. Crafts and rate per hour for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform this contract are listed under Wage Rates, Instructions to Bidders.

10. The prevailing rates so determined are based on a 8-hour day, 40-hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreements between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.

11. It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor, and upon any subcontractors under him, to pay not less than the said specific rates to all laborers, workmen or mechanics employed by them in the execution of this Contract.

12. A Bond will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the Bid.

Unit Seeks Help

The Steering Committee for "Save San Bruno Mountain" this week issued an appeal for volunteers.

They are needed, according to group chairwoman Bette Higgins, to circulate open letters for signatures, to distribute bumper stickers and to attend meetings.

According to Mrs. Higgins, conflicting plans for the mountain are due for review and decision between now and June. Her groups have asked the county to go on record in favor of a large and usable park.

Present proposals, Mrs. Higgins said, include developing a resource park of 1,200 acres on the south side of Guadalupe Parkway, and a town shopping and office center on the north side of the parkway, complete with a 3,000 car parking lot and high-rise office building.

The park, she charges, would be too steep and too fragile to allow more than six per cent of the area to be used for recreation and would have to be fenced and guarded to keep it from being overrun by nearby residents.

13. A Bond will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the Bid.

'The Assessor Is Doing a Good Job'

Supervisors Approve Assessing Revisions

A series of recommendations which the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors hope will better-equalize the county's assessment practices have been adopted by the board.

The recommendations, including the hiring of an independent consultant to review and recommend assessment practices, were made by Supervisors William H. Royer and John M. Ward. The two met recently with representatives of the Hillsborough Homeowners' Association to hear complaints that the county's homeowners are bearing an unfair proportion of the county's tax burden because of underassessment of commercial and industrial practices.

"Basically, the assessor (Jack Estes) is doing a good job, but some things need correcting so it will be a better job," Royer stated.

"If we give him the tools," Royer said addressing Pat Kelly, president of the Homeowners' Association, "your goal of everyone being treated fairly will be reached in a shorter time."

Kelly had told the board that "We want all classes of property in the county to be treated alike, that's all we're asking."

"If anything is wrong with our assessment policies, we want to change them," said Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald. The board wants to set some machinery in motion and start working to show our good intentions.

In prefacing their recommendations, Royer and Ward state in their report that, "Our support for high level efficiency in the assessor's operation reflects our concern that the assessor be able to document every decision, that accurate data be available rapidly, and that assessment practices carry the full confidence of this board and the general public."

The recommendations accepted by the board:

- That the district attorney seek a separate opinion from the state Attorney General as to the question of escaped assessments.

(Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson said in a separate report to the board that on the basis of evidence gathered, the assessor is not engaging in illegal assessment practices. He noted that Supreme Court decisions have approved the making of escaped assessments where the assessor had been guilty of using different assessment ratios for different properties. However, the district attorney reported, there is, in his opinion, no present case law which would authorize escaped assessments where the current was made in good faith.)

• That the board authorize the retention of one or more independent consultants in a two-step approach to help expedite development of computer applications for commercial and industrial appraisal work, including short-term assistance to review approaches and scope for technical assistance, and the actual technical assistance itself.

(The Homeowners' Association will be asked to provide input in selection of the consultants.)

• That the assessor apply an interim increase for commercial and industrial valuations in those districts where analysis supports it and to continue such practice until computer applications become operational.

• That the assessor implement a revision in current computer programming work to include a notation of appraisal review decision that are for "no change" in order to maintain a complete record of important reassessment decisions.

Despite a protest from the Firefighters Union, the South San Francisco City Council voted to transfer eight men from city employees' Unit 6, firemen, to Unit 1, management, last Wednesday night.

Protesting was Joseph Ross of San Francisco, attorney for Local 1507. He charged that transferring six of the men from the firemen's unit into the management unit would hurt morale. He said separating the men from those with whom they have worked in close daily contact for as long as 18 years would be demoralizing.

SSF to Transfer Eight Firemen to Management

He charged that the move was being made to save the city overtime payments.

City Manager Ed Alario defended his recommendation for the transfer. Over-time would still be paid for fighting fires, on off-duty hours, but not for staff meetings or other administrative duties. The move was needed, he said, in order to spread more responsibility throughout the fire department, instead of leaving with the fire chief and his assistant the sole responsibility for making decisions.

In all a total of 18 persons were added to the management unit, including seven positions that were newly created during the past two years.

SSF Moves To Revise License Tax

The South San Francisco City Council last Wednesday approved a $7,500 agreement with the firm of Andersen, Heiss and Hughes to revise the business license tax ordinance.

Presently, approximately 2,000 businesses, industries and professionals are paying either $25 or $50 a year in license fees for a total of $80,000 a year. City Manager Ed Alario expressed hope that a graduated license fee will provide a major source of much-needed revenue.

Councilmen, however, were reluctant to appoint an outside firm to revise the ordinance. Councilman Leo Padreddi, who voted against the agreement, said that "we hired a bunch of professional people to run our city. We should let our own staff make this study and save $7,000."

The other councilmen, however, agreed with Alario that with labor negotiations and budget-making coming up, the project would be unduly delayed.

IN OTHER ACTION, the council:

- Enacted a penalty clause, imposing fines ranging up to $500 and jail terms of six months for such offenses as cruelty to animals, carrying switchblade knives, keeping wild animals, speeding, violating the two-term council limitation, and giving an illegal campaign contribution.

- Protested the Dills Bill, setting up compulsory arbitration and giving public employees the right to strike.

- Raised dog license fees from $6 to $7 for unaltered dogs, and from $3 to $3.50 for altered dogs.

- Changed contract with Humane Society, eliminating an annual payment of $18,807, but keeping the same level of service.

- Continued to March 19 a hearing on an Environmental Impact Report for the fire-police facility.

- Agreed to a study session, date unspecified, for a proposed condominium ordinance.

- Approved the Parking Place Commission recommendation to enter into negotiations for a lot at 427 Grand Ave., across from City Hall, for a parking mall. The lot has been appraised at $29,000.

'Star' Returns To Terra Nova

LOCAL NOTES:

Seen at a recent Terra Nova basketball game was Bob McClure, a TN alumnus who may this very next season be a starting pitcher with Kansas City.

McClure was sitting with some of his old classmates and teammates, and saying hi to smiling young ladies who recognized the handsome young southpaw.

One of his former teachers chided him. "You're modest now, Bob, but will you remember us when you're in the $100,000 per class."

McClure smiled and said that he'd always be a Terra Nova fan, and one got the idea that he was sincere.

The tough grind of the minor leagues and the seriousness it requires to make it to the top in such a competitive profession as baseball, have now apparently matured McClure, who was a typical flakey left-hander as a prep. With that maturity is a quiet confidence.

When another old teacher asked him his chances of sticking with the big club this year, McClure said, "Good, real good. They said they're giving me a shot as a starter, and I believe them, because I'll be one of only four left handed pitchers on the 40 man roster, and they're almost certain to keep at least three of us. You know, left handers are at a premium in the bigs now."

McClure, who was written up in the Sporting News over the winter as the top prospect in the Kansas City chain, was then asked by yours truly how many men he picked off base last season.

"Only 19," said McClure, seriously.

But for Bob, who has the best move to first base we've every seen at any level (and many more experienced baseball men than us agree) of competition, 19 is relatively minimal.

"But," McClure noted quickly, the old quiet confidence returning, "I guess that was pretty good for AAA ball."

McClure, that's pretty good Midget League.

ONE OF THE NATION'S top collegiate wrestlers is headquartered right over the Daly City border at San Francisco State, where two-time All American Lloyd Teasley, a 177 pounder, keeps pinning 'em with regularity.

As we write this, Teasley and local product Tom Cherhoniak (Terra Nova, Pacifica, and Skyline College, San Bruno, a 142 pounder, are leading the Far Western Conference dual meet champs in to the FWC Championships in Aracata to determine the overall champion.

Moe on that in a later column.

And for all of you Peninsula Mission High grads, it's that time of the year again for the annual Mission High School athletic alumni banquet, once again to be held at the Seven Hills Restaurant (26 California St. in San Francisco, boozing to begin at 7 p.m., eating (maybe) at 8 p.m., on March 7. Price of the dinner will be $7, and the guest of honor will be Glen Haas, former Mission PE teacher.

We mean to devote much of a column to Haas within the next couple of weeks, but a quickie notice at this time is to give you readers who remember him time enough to think about the donation of a dollar (or more) to the Mission High G. Haas Fund (that's how the check is to be made out), and mailed to Mission High at 701 Frederick St., San Francisco, 94117.

HOT STOVE NOTES:

Wondering if the picking up of former Dodger speedster Van Joshua could mean a trade of either Gary Thomasson or Dave Goodson. The Giants do need a man who can lead off, and Joshua might be able to do that. But it seems unlikely that he will beat out any of the three current outfield regulars — Gary Matthews, Garry Maddox and Bobby Murcer. In which case, he's almost sure to be an extra outfielder, and since the Giants already have a left-handed swinging extra outfielder with speed in Thomasson, and since it isn't likely they picked Joshua up to trade him, it may be Thomasson departing for a pitcher.

COUPLE OF WEEKS AGO we were beginning a sort of loose, random analysis of major league stolen base statistics when space ran out, and we promised a continuation in another column, so here it is.

We had mentioned that the Cardinals, almost solely because of Lou Brock, led the majors in steals last year (172) but that Cincinnati led in stealing percentage (74.9) to the Cardinals' 73.5) while coming in third in the NL in total steals behind the Cards and Dodgers.

What we never got to was that there were two other teams in baseball last year which stole better than 70 per cent of their bases, aside from the Reds and Cards (the Dodger percentage was 66.5) — Montreal (71.7) and Baltimore (71.4). Montreal was fourth in the NL in total steals (124), Baltimore third in the AL (145) behind Oakland (164) and Kansas City (146). The A's had only the third best stealing percentage in the AL (63.8) behind Baltimore, K.C. and Boston (64.2). As a matter of fact, the A's had to share the third spot with perhaps the slowest team in baseball, Detroit.

We wrote a lot last season about that 233 foot left field fence in the Sacramento Solon park, and, naturally, about the homeruns it was producing. If you're interested in the final carnage count, following are the new Pacific Coast League records the short porch produced:

- Most HR's by one team (Sacramento, naturally) in a season, 305.
- Most homers in one park in one season, 491 (250 by the Solons, 241 by opponents).
- Most home runs by two teams in a single game, 14. (This was done twice.)
- Most home runs by one team, one game, 10 (by Phoenix).
- Most grand slams in one game, 3 (one by Tacoma, two by Sacramento).
- Most grand slams in one inning by two clubs, two (by Tacoma and Sacramento).
- Most grand slams in one inning by one team, 2. (Sacramento).
- Most homeruns by one player in one park during single season, 44, by Bill McNulty of the Solons.

The above list, incidentally, did not include records tied, which might have run us out of space. But there will be some relief in Sacramento next season. They're lengthening the fence — to 251 feet.

WHEN ONE WRITES a sports column, one must be very careful, because there are no statutes of limitations on errors in sports facts.

Several weeks ago we wrote about how Hugh McElhenry virtually single-handedly helped to bring the rule into the NFL that a runner was considered tackled the moment his knee hit the ground, because too many hatchet men were taking advantage of McElhenry's rubber-ball spirit and churning him into the ground until he could no longer twitch. The climax, we noted, came during a game against the Chicago Bears at Kezar in 1954, when Hugh had a shoulder damaged because of late piling on at the conclusion of a wide sweep, a play which ended his potentially greatest season and championship possibilities for the 49ers.

So a few days after publication of that column we got a call from reader Jim McGuinn, who says, "You know that 1954 McElhenry play you wrote about? ... It wasn't a wide sweep ... it was a screen pass."

"Too much, too soon," was the anguished lament stemming from Westmoor High late Saturday night after the Rams squandered away season-long domination and, by the way, a three-quarter lead, to the scrappy Terra Nova Tigers.

Much to their credit, the Tigers rallied in a hot-shooting fourth quarter to upset Westmoor, 55-51, forcing the Rams to waste one of the precious first-place finish-losses the round-robin winner gets.

Westmoor had to sit back, uncomfortably, to see who would win the Terra Nova-Jefferson game Tuesday night at Skyline. That winner will play the Rams today at Skyline for the right to go on to the sectional championship game Saturday at College of San Mateo.

The loss dropped Westmoor's overall record to 21-3. Terra Nova, which finished fourth in the North Peninsula League basketball chase, now stands at 13-11.

Westmoor not only defeated Terra Nova twice this season before Saturday, but in the last game of the regular schedule had as much as a 27-point lead in the last half in a "laughing." The Rams were not giggling Saturday night at El Camino High.

"How many times does any coach try to impress on a team that no matter what has happened before, nothing can be taken for granted," rhetorically asked Ram Coach Tony Giamonna. "I knew after last Wednesday's game that we'd be in trouble, but still over-confidence killed us ... and the fact that Terra Nova played a better offensive game."

The Tigers, who hadn't looked for the shot often enough last Wednesday, came out Saturday firing in the second half. During the first 16 minutes, the Rams had built up as much as an eight-point lead, with sophomore Chris Tyeskey carrying the early offensive burden.

But TN Coach Bud Bresnahan made the first of his two defensive maneuvers that stopped Westmoor from pulling away. He put Bob McClure onto Tyeskey and the taller Tiger defender was able to quell Tyeskey's scoring thrusts.

Trojans Clinch League Crown

By JOHN MURPHY
Correspondent

It was a feeling of relief rather than joy in a subdued victory celebration in the Skyline College locker room following the Trojans Coast Conference title-clinching 82-61 win over Gavilan Saturday night.

The game was strictly anti-climax for a Skyline team which had battled back from a horrendous pre-season start (they lost four of their first six) to win 15 straight games including their first eight in conference play.

The Trojans are now 10-1 in the Coast Conference and 21-6 overall. Skyline will advance to the state finals (March 13-14-15) in Fresno where they will play the winner of the Desert Conference.

SC had trouble early against a relaxed Gavilan team which had nearly upset second-place Menlo last Saturday. Had it not been for the shooting of forward Marty Gale, a sophomore from South San Francisco High, the Trojans would have been in serious trouble in the first half.

Gale bombed in 15 of his game-high 23 points in the first 20 minutes of action, but Skyline led only 34-30 before a basket by Gale and two more by guard Wyatt Sweeney lifted the Trojans to a 40-31 halftime lead.

Skyline blew the game open in the second half, with freshman guard Nick Pappageorge leading the way.

He finished the game with a school-record 18 assists to go along with 12 points and nine rebounds.

Guard Mason Larkin and Sweeney backed up Pappageorge and Gale with 12 and ten points respectively.

Forward Duke Ribar had 20 for Gavilan. Guard Mark Tichenor had 14 and Carpenter 11.

Partly explaining the less-than-exuberant atmosphere following the game, Gale commented, "We would have been very disappointed if we had not won. Actually, it was just a matter of time before we clinched this thing."

Veteran Sweeney added, "I didn't feel that excited right after. We didn't play that well the last three or four games. But it's a great feeling to leave with a championship. Last year I would have never thought that we could do this well. I'll never forget this."

Pappageorge, the former Mills standout who leads the conference in scoring with 202 points (18.3 per game), commented on SC's sudden emergence as a basketball power:

"All of the freshmen coming in this year had winning attitudes. We knew what we had to do to win and pretty soon the second year players got the fever too. It's just been a great season."

The Trojans have one conference game left on Wednesday as they travel to Fremont to meet Ohlone. Skyline will also meet the conference all-stars March 7 at Skyline.

Serramonte Cager Ruled Ineligible

By JERRY LITRELL
Correspondent

The Protest Committee of the Central Coast Section has overruled the North Peninsula League Board of Managers on one of two protests involving Serramonte High School in Daly City.

The committee ruled Thursday that Ken Campbell, sophomore basketball player, is eligible.

The committee upheld the ineligibility of Ken's older brother, Skip Campbell, because of a residency discrepancy.

The committee ruled that because Ken had come directly from Westborough Junior High School as a freshman to Serramonte, and had been accepted by that school, he was eligible.

Rams Sit Back Uncomfortably

Tigers Upset Westmoor 55-51

Then after guard Ted Scott had fired three bombers from the outside putting Westmoor up 40-35 after three periods, McClure was sent over to follow Scott around. Again the Ram offense bogged down.

Dan Navarro, playing for the second time following a four-week layoff due to a broken hand, scored six points in the final quarter, as the Tigers forced Westmoor into committing so many fouls, that Scott, Rob Baptista and Jerry McNeil, all starters, fouled out. With Baptista went the quarter-backing and fast break, and with Scott the scoring for the night.

Center Dan Phelps grabbed 20 rebounds and scored 11 points for Terra Nova.

Round-robin sophomore winner South San Francisco likewise sustained an upset, as the young Warriors lost to Oceana 63-58. Oceana was to play Serramonte Tuesday night at 7 p.m. for the right to play South City again today for the NPL sophomore championship.

Jim McCreary's 25 points and Halver James' 17 pushed Oceana to as much as a 17-point lead early, but the sophomore Sharks had to withstand a furious charge at the end which twice closed the gap to three points.

Serra Didn't Die Easy; SI Takes League Title

By STEVE JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

Serra High's basketball team breathed a fiery last gasp in the West Catholic Athletic League playoffs Saturday night.

But it was the Padres' last gasp, just the same.

St. Ignatius of San Francisco (25-1) held off the Padres (18-8) in a 54-52 thriller to win the WCAL title before a roaring packed house at the University of San Francisco.

It was SI's first league title since 1967. Ironically, the Wildcats beat Serra by two to win that one.

The Padres, after being down by 13 points at one time in the first half and by nine going into the final quarter, came back for a shot at a tying basket in the final seconds.

With seven seconds left and Serra trailing 50-48, guard Joe Moureaux twisted a drive to SI's basket. But 6-7 Wildcat forward Mike Bowie was there to meet Moureaux.

Bowie batted down the shot and SI forward Juan Mitchell immediately grabbed the loose ball. He was fouled and hit two clinching free throws with four seconds left.

Serra guard John O'Leary made the final margin two when he meshed a 27-foot jumper at the buzzer.

"I was proud of that comeback," said first year Padre coach Pat McGlennon. "But it didn't surprise me. It's the kind of thing our guys have done all season."

"I couldn't have asked for any more from them. They went to war every second they were out there. On that last shot, O'Leary was signaling for a timeout while the ball was still in the air. Something like that says a lot."

The Padres had closed to 47-42 when center Joe Ned fouled out with 5:42 left — a potentially crippling blow in the face of SI's tall and talented front-line.

But Serra refused to be crippled, and at 1:20 John Caselli made it 52-48 with a pair of free throws. Seconds later, Caselli stole a pass. At 1:01, O'Leary and Moureaux worked a perfect back door play.

At 0:41, Mike O'Regan deflected a pass and Caselli grabbed the ball. The Padres then worked outside until Moureaux made his move.

He appeared to have an opening — until Bowie closed it. "I just never saw him until it was too late," said Moureaux.

Serra's five starting seniors — O'Leary, Moureaux, O'Regan, Caselli and Ned — all finished standout seasons with standout games. Caselli, the WCAL's Player of the Year, had 16 points. Moureaux had 14.

Under McGlennon, the Padres, predicted by many to be little better than average, developed into one of the Central Coast Section's best teams.

Serra is the only team to have beaten SI, the top-rated outfit in the CCS.

Getting Youth Into Cancer Field

Alan Koshar wants to get more young people like himself involved in the fight against cancer.

"Sometimes people think that the only health problems young people are involved in are drug related."

Koshar has worked as a volunteer with the Haight Ashbury Clinic as well as a Crisis Intervention Center.

However, he says, "My age group is vitally concerned with all health problems, especially cancer."

Koshar, age 25, has accepted the duties of North County field representative for the San Mateo County Unit of the American Cancer Society, and says he hopes to channel the energies of both the young and the old to help him distribute life saving information.

"I don't think there are any of us who have not been touched by the tragedy of cancer through a family member or a friend."

Although cancer is sometimes thought of as a disease of the middle-aged or old, few people realize that cancer kills more children than does any other disease.

"The Cancer Society has a tremendous responsibility to help the public learn more about the disease; programs are costly," he points out.

As with many other non-profit organizations, the Cancer Society is feeling the pinch in running its present programs of education, service to cancer patients, and research.

"We will need the help of all age groups to help raise the funds that is so desperately needed to maintain our present programs," Koshar says.

Since the American Cancer Society does not receive funds from the United Crusade, contributions are derived from private donations.

Residential and business volunteers are needed to help in the upcoming Cancer Crusade to solicit funds as well as distribute life saving facts.

Daly City recently lost one of its most respected citizens through this dread disease.

"What better way to remember a lost friend or a relative than to join in the fight against cancer," added Koshar.

A branch office was opened Feb. 19, at the Sears Tanforan.

For further information on how to help, contact the San Mateo office of the American Cancer Society, 1163 Chess Drive, Suite A, in Foster City or call 341-8749.

Two Serra Seniors Named Bank Winners

Two Serra High School seniors will compete in the annual Bank of America awards program. They are Eugene Klein, San Mateo, who will receive a plaque for achievement in liberal arts, and Gerald Harnett, South San Francisco, for science and mathematics.

Certificates of merit for outstanding academic performance in special fields went to Kenneth Perscheid, drama, and Kurt Amundson, foreign languages, both San Mateo; Frank Kmak, English, and Michael Grant, social studies, Hillsborough; Dennis McEnnerney, social studies, and Thomas Barrington, business, San Carlos; Larry Stone, music, Millbrae; Curtis Tingley, English, Burlingame; Paul Rioski, foreign languages, Redwood City; and Louis Mayta, mathematics, San Bruno. Others are Dave Torre, Belmont, and Ron Morel, South San Francisco, for Laboratory science.

The two plaque winners will compete with others from neighboring high schools at a mid-March zone event. Judges will be educators, business and community leaders. Judging is based on written compositions, group discussions, scholarships, and civic and school activities. Second and third place winners in each field receive $100 and $75 respectively.

Winners in each category advance to the regional finals in May. These semifinals compete for $1,000, $750 and $500 prizes. All other finalists receive $250.

FASHION SHOW PLANNING

Preparations are underway for the annual luncheon fashion show hosted by Loma Chica and Palos Verdes Schools for the Mentally Retarded. The theme of this fund-raising function is "Bouquet of Spring." Tickets are on sale for the event to be held at the Ranch Inn Restaurant, Serramonte Center, Daly City, March 18, starting with no-host cocktails at 11 a.m. Lunch is at 12. Fashions will be supplied by many of the Serramonte merchants representing new ideas for Spring. Pictured (from left) are Loretta Chun, luncheon chairwoman, Palos Verdes School; Grant Thomas; Janet Thomas, luncheon chairwoman, Loma Chica School; James Price; Betty Mozzetti, PTA president, Palos Verdes School and Dorothy Dutton.

VAUDEVILLE PREMIERE

Bicentennial Groups Are Formed Locally

The San Mateo County Bicentennial Committee is urging all residents to become involved in activities presently being formulated in their communities.

With local interest running high, many cities have already formed their own Bicentennial groups to help plan the celebration of the nation's 200th anniversary next year. Thirteen out of 19 cities have appointed Bicentennial chairmen.

In Brisbane, Chairman Art Montenegro and his committee are planning numerous events which include restoration of store fronts in the City.

Mayro McRobert Stewart

will head the Daly City group. San Bruno's Bicentennial Committee, headed by Don Frate, will hold its first meeting next week to start formulating their plans.

Acting as chairman for Bicentennial celebrations in South San Francisco will be former Mayor Terry Mirri, and in Millbrae Councilmen Tullio Bertini and Art Lepore will co-head that city's contingency.

In Burlingame, school art consultant Dale Perkins will incorporate the Bicentennial theme in the children's art projects. Perkins will also act as chairman for that city committee.

San Mateo is already in full swing, having been recognized as an official Bicentennial Community by the state and national organizations. A pageant is being planned for May, 1976, and a contest currently is being held to choose a slogan for the city. The group is headed by Hugh Wayne.

Mrs. Russell E. Kelley has accepted the chairmanship for Foster City.

Belmont's active committee, headed by James McLaughlin, has announced that it too will be recognized at ceremonies to take place on Feb. 24.

Contest Finals Announced

Fifty Daly City playground winners competed in the fifth annual Toto's Basketball Skills Contest citywide finals held at Jefferson Gym recently. The contest was sponsored by Toto's Restaurant and the Daly City Recreation Department.

Contestants in grade divisions third and under through the eighth grade competed in five basketball skills events — dribbling accuracy for time; around the world; shooting for time; passing accuracy; and free-throw shooting.

Winners in each division received a large pizza, free courtesy of Tot's Restaurant and Pizzeria. Prize ribbons went to first, second, and third in each division and all received award certificates.

Results were as follows: Girls' Division: fourth grade — first, Melissa Candau; eighth grade — first, Verna Castro; second, Rose Wood; third, Anne Culber

Boys' Division: third grade — first, Vince Machi; second, Mike Fisher; third, (tie) Nathaniel Carter, Lionel Thompson. Fourth grade — first, Greg Sigie; second, Neal Celestino; third, Roy Nicholson. Fifth grade — first, Mike Patt; second, Mark Svenson; third, Willie Kraus. Sixth grade — first, Mike Candau; second, Scott Robinson; third, (tie) Lucion Banks and Thadeus Gill. Seventh grade — first, Danny Celestino; second, Alvin Rozal; third, Blake Stewart; and eighth grade — first, Joe Phifer; second, Don Montalvo.

When you're in love you have everything.

Almost.

Maybe young lovers can live on moonbeams and marigolds.

But when they marry and become Young Homemakers they find they need more—things like furniture, appliances, floor coverings, linens, draperies, and, if all goes well...infantswear.

Because they need so many things, and need them right away, Young Homemakers are an important market for most retailers. According to a nationwide study by the Newspaper Advertising Bureau, the typical Young Homemaker moves about three times during the first five years of marriage. Some of these moves are from city to city and some are within the same area, but each move is usually into larger quarters and that means buying additional furnishings.

The Young Homemakers are careful shoppers, relying on the daily newspaper as a shopping tool. 66% of those interviewed had read a daily newspaper the day before. Nine out of 10 of those who used advertising as a purchase guide said the advertising in the newspaper is the "most helpful" kind—more helpful than commercials on TV or radio.

If you're a Young Homemaker with lots to buy to make a house a home, shop the pages of this newspaper before you shop the fine stores who advertise with us.

And if you're a retailer who wants to know more about reaching and informing today's Young Homemakers, call us for more details from the very interesting Bureau study.
